Thousands Cheer "Miss Victoria" At Coronation

Kay White Invested By Premier Before Great Crowd at Parliament Buildings

Coronation Ball Colorful Event

In a blaze of light, before a crowd that stretched to the farthest corners of the lawns, Miss Kay White, popular young Victorian, was last night crowned "Miss Victoria" by Premier Pattullo on the main steps of the Parliament Buildings.

As Miss White reached the steps of the buildings for her coronation her car was surrounded by crowds, anxious for a first glimpse of the girl who will bear Victoria's name at the World's Fair in San Francisco next year.

She mounted the long steps, over a carpet of cardinal red and took her throne, beneath the main portal, surrounded by her attendants, Miss Doreen McGregor and Miss Jean Wilson, her crown bearer, Miss Corinne Moore, and her flower girls, Patsy Sparks, Lorraine Stocker, and pages, Norma Dunn and Jacqueline le Huquet.

Premier Pattullo, in a brief ceremony, placed the golden crown on Miss White's head, wished her a happy reign, spoke of her youth and beauty and popularity. Briefly "Miss Victoria," her dark beauty accentuated by her gown of glittering white, replied, said how happy she was and how surprised to be so honored by the public of Victoria.

EMPIRE GOWN

Miss White was not only beautiful, but dignified and impressive as she stood before the gaze of her thousands of admiring friends. Her white satin gown of the Empire period was modeled to the figure, and the skirt formed a fan train with lace insets. Lace also formed the yoke of the gown and the puffed top of the long sleeves. A Queen Ann collar of stiffened lace lent further dignity and a touch of the picturesque.

Yangtze Dikes Cut By Chinese

Flood Let Loose Above Kiukiang to Stop Japanese Troops' Drive

SHANGHAI (AP)—Japanese reported early Wednesday that Chinese troops along the Yangtze River had cut the dikes above Kiukiang and flooded a huge area of farm land to slow down the drive against Hankow, China's provisional capital.

The breach was said to have been made 10 miles above Kiukiang, important river port 135 miles down river from Hankow and centre of bitter fighting for weeks.

Similar strategy was successful in halting the Japanese drive westward along the Lunghai railway when the Chinese cut Yellow River dikes early in June.

The Japanese then launched their Yangtze campaign.

THE WEATHER

VICTORIA, 5 a.m. today—Pacific ship reports are not available, but pressure appears to be high southwest of Vancouver Island. A storm over the Far North is causing light showers in northern districts. The weather has been mostly fair and comparatively cool in southern district and also on the coast. Local thunderstorms are reported in Alberta.

Vancouver Has $350,000 Fire

Man Injured When Big Warehouse Guttled in Second Big Blaze in Week

VANCOUVER (CP)—A two-alarm fire gutted a five-story brick warehouse here early today and caused damage roughly estimated at $350,000. It was Vancouver's second major blaze within a week.

The Empress Manufacturing Company, one of the four firms with merchandise stored in the building, said damage to fruit and containers in the fire was from $150,000 to $175,000.

FIREMAN INJURED

Caught on a fire-escape when windows caved and the flames roared out on him, Fireman Thomas Brown toppled 20 feet to the ground. He landed on his feet and went to a hospital with burned hands and a possible broken ankle.

Firms which suffered losses in the fire were the Sherwin-Williams Paint and Varnish Company, coast distributors, radio wholesalers, the Empress Manufacturing Company, jam manufacturers, and the Smith, Davidson and Wright Company. All had merchandise stored in the building.

Fire officials said they believed the blaze, which came just six days after a $1,200,000 fire had destroyed the Canadian Pacific steamships' pier D, had started in the centre of the building on the second floor.

The flames mushroomed up and spread out from home furnishings stored there by the Pease Van and Storage Company. Five minutes after the first apparatus had arrived on the scene, a second alarm was sent in, and later an extra pump and extra hose wagon were called out.

FLAMES ROSE HIGH

Half an hour after a passing milkman, George Mason, had turned in the alarm, the flames had spread completely through the building. Catching waxed paper stored by the Smith, Davidson and Wright Company on the two upper floors, the blaze roared upward to the roof and broke through, sending flames 50 feet into the air.

Almost two hours after firemen had poured tons of water into the building from seven hose lines at the front, four at the rear and two over the roof, flames still shot out from the upper floor. Extension ladders were run up at front and back to give firemen more chance against the flaming wax paper.

It was more than an hour and a half before the blaze was brought under control.

School Report Out Tomorrow

Weir to Issue Important Survey of Education in Victoria Area

Important recommendations dealing with the school system of Greater Victoria are understood to be embodied in a report of the government's special investigating committee which will be made public tomorrow by Hon. G. M. Weir, Minister of Education.

The committee, consisting of prominent educationists from Victoria and Vancouver under Inspector William Gray, spent several months studying the school problem here.

Their lengthy report covering all phases of organization of schools, curriculum, teaching methods, value received for school expenditures and numerous other phases, has been printed by the government for favor of the organization of a Greater Victoria school system covering the city, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt.

Short Rain Brings Little Fire Relief

Loyalists Press Toward Teruel

HENDAYE, France (AP)—Two columns of Spanish government militiamen, seeking to wrest the offensive from the insurgents, reported today they were pressing determinedly toward Teruel, capital of Teruel province.

Gen. Jose Miaja's attack on the city, which has changed hands twice during the civil war, apparently was co-ordinated with the government's Catalan offensive against Gaudes to take advantage of reductions in insurgent manpower.

Missing

One of the 15 men being searched for by the ships and planes combing the Pacific, 500 miles east of the Philippines, where the Hawaii Clipper disappeared, is K. A. Kennedy, above. He boarded the flying boat at Alameda, Cal., after traveling from Piedmont, Cal., where he was traffic division manager for the Pan-American Airways.

Closure Lifted on Northern Island Section But Rest of District Hazardous

Rains on Vancouver Island yesterday were not sufficient to relieve the forest fire situation substantially, but in the northern part of Vancouver forest district conditions have improved to such an extent that a forest closure order put into effect July 25 has been lifted.

Lifting of the closure, which will permit resumption of logging applies to Vancouver Island north of Sayward district and to the mainland from Knight Inlet to Rivers Inlet.

The rest of the district remains under closure.

Forest officials who traveled the island yesterday said rain fell heavily at Duncan and lightly in the Courtenay fire area and around Victoria, but not enough to give much relief.

A six-week-old fire at Bowser sprang up again yesterday afternoon and for a time it was feared severe. According to provincial police, however, the blaze was brought under control by 4 this morning.

WEEK OF HAZARD

Last week goes down in the history of the provincial forest branch as one of the worst on record for forest fires.

"The past week," says the branch's weekly report, "has been one of acute hazard and probably one of the worst in the annals of the department."

"All districts report extremely hazardous conditions, Vancouver Island and the south coast particularly."

"The number of new fires reported reached a new high, 177, with 142 still burning. All logging operations in the Vancouver forest district were closed down, camp fire permits canceled and travel in the woods still banned."

The forest report shows that so far this year, with the fire season not half over, British Columbia has had 1,275 outbreaks, against 725 last year and 712 the year before. In the Vancouver forest district, which includes the big logging areas of the island and the lower coast, the toll to date is 177.

Tanks, Heavy Guns, Planes In Battle On Border Of Siberia

Moscow Awaits Story Of Fight

At Khabarovsk, in Far East, Siberian Youths Demonstrate

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet circles Wednesday afternoon said they were unable to confirm foreign reports of a new offensive in the Changkufeng area at the Siberian-Manchukuan border.

A Moscow dispatch stated that until the communistic telling of the fighting at Changkufeng Sunday and Monday there had been little public mention in Russia of the dispute with Japan, but at Khabarovsk, 400 miles north of the frontier district, communist youth in a mass meeting Monday urged greater military preparation for national defense.

The Khabarovsk rally was part of a nation-wide celebration of anti-war day—the 24th anniversary of Germany's declaration of war against old imperial Russia.

Workers declared the title of Citizen of the Far East must become synonymous with fearlessness and must mean its bearer "is trained for military duty and is ready to defend the frontiers."

The Communist Party organ Pravda at Moscow published a statement signed by the Arctic hero Ivan Panarin saying that "if war comes we will send warships across the North Sea route and launch our fear-inspiring seaplanes against the enemy."

Japanese Report Russian Troops in Manchukuan Boundary District, Attacking Changkufeng Hills From North and South, Are Repulsed; State Soviet Forces' Losses Total 250; Japanese Casualties Since Sunday Put at 30 Killed and 67 Wounded; Russian Fliers Stated to Be Bombing Korean Villages

Reports on Crisis

After Gen. K. Ugaki (above), Japanese Foreign Minister, had talked with Premier Prince Konoye in Tokyo today, the Premier went to the Emperor's summer villa and reported on the Siberian armed clashes.

TOKIO (AP)—The Japanese government announced Tuesday its forces had repulsed a large-scale, two-edged attack by Soviet troops in the disputed area on the Siberian-Manchukuan frontier.

A large communique charged the Russians repeatedly were bombing Korean villages in the vicinity of Changkufeng, focal point since July 11 of Soviet-Japanese conflict.

It is estimated the Soviet losses at 250 and listed Japanese casualties since Sunday in the border fighting as including three officers and 27 soldiers killed and 67 wounded.

Tanks, heavy artillery and aircraft were thrown into action Tuesday by the Russians, the War Office announced, to clear the way for infantry attacks from the north and south against the Changkufeng Hill region.

The clash was the latest episode in days of fighting for the area Russia claims to be in Siberia and Japan holds to be in Manchukuo.

"We consider the situation exceptionally serious," the government communique said.

BOMBARDMENT

The Russian forces opened the offensive at 9 a.m. (4 p.m. Monday, P.S.T.) with an artillery bombardment against the Changkufeng hills.

Suddenly from a pall of smoke screen, eight tanks appeared, followed by infantry.

Japanese returned the fire with anti-tank guns against the troops advancing from the north.

At the same time, Soviet infantry surged from the south.

Both attacks were repulsed, the War Office said, with heavy losses among the Soviet attackers after sanguinary fighting.

The War Office asserted that civilians were slain in the air raids and "planes are ready and we must answer."

Ten Soviet bombers, flying in formation, bombed Changkufeng and villages in the vicinity, the War Office communique said.

(Private advice to Japanese in Shanghai from Manchukuo said Russian air bombers raided Yulok province, southwest of Vladivostok, and severed the railway line between Kirin, in the heart of Manchukuo, and the coastal city of Yuku).

A Korean army communique announced army and navy planes were ready for the worst emergency, and that "if they once go aloft, enemy positions could not resist, no matter how strongly defended." The communique was issued before the Russian attack.

REPORT TO EMPEROR

The Minister of War, Lieut. Gen. Seishiro Itagaki, outlined the critical state of affairs to the cabinet, and later went with Gen. Fumimaro Ugaki, Foreign Minister, to the residence of the Premier, Prince Fumimaro Konoye.

Prince Konoye left a short time later to report to the Emperor at his summer villa.

"Japan's policy is one of non-aggression, but she will not tolerate invasion of her territory," said one member of an official group.

"However, despite fighting in China, Japan is capable of engaging in a major conflict with Russia. The Kwantung army, which probably is the empire's best, still is intact, both in men and munitions."

Domei (Japanese news agency) attributed to the Foreign Office spokesman the statement Russia's attitude would determine whether a major conflict developed.

BIG SUPPLIES

The first clash between frontier forces in the present series, one of many since 1931, came four weeks ago in a hilly area where Russian-Siberia, Manchukuo and Japanese Korea join.

In that vicinity Japan already has armament warehouses, ammunition cached in the hills, and

NO EVIDENCE OF FIRE; TRAVEL SAFE

A motorist can travel from Qualicum Beach to Campbell River and only see a trace of the great fire of a week ago. Tourists need have no fear that the famous holiday places of the Upper Island are damaged.

This is the finding of Ben Hughes of Courtenay, who made a survey over the week-end of the north end of the Island Highway.

"For 100 miles north of Nanaimo the Island Highway runs through green verdure unscarred by the great fire save for a mile eight miles south of Campbell River. And in this spot the fire is dead out," Mr. Hughes wrote to the Times today. "The air is clear of smoke and the tourist need never know of the great fire unless he can read it. Ten miles away he can see smoke in the foothills, but that is all."

Qualicum Beach and Parksville were completely untouched by the blaze. Courtenay and Comox have not lost a blade of grass or seen a tree scorched. The Tyee are beginning to run at Campbell River and the coho are taking the fly.

"Beyond Campbell River the beauty of Elk Falls has been saved, but two bridges have been burnt out and the country has been scarred with fire."

Blind Girl Voyager's Dog Barred At London

LONDON (CP)—The government today refused to admit without quarantine the German shepherd dog which Hazel Hurst, 22, blind, uses as a guide.

The Ministry of Agriculture expressed "every sympathy" for Miss Hurst, from Oneonta, N.Y., but added an exception in her case would open a loophole in the regulations for others.

The young woman wept when she was advised of the decision aboard the steamship American Merchant, said it was the first time "I ever felt blind in my life," and declared: "I shall never stand up to God Save the King again when I go back to Canada."

"I am going back to America when the boat sails Friday and I shall never want to come to England again," she said.

The regulations require that visitors' dogs be quarantined until authorities are satisfied they are free of contagious disease.

HEPBURN SEES PIONEER MINE

GOLDBRIDGE, B.C. (CP)—Premier Mitchell Hepburn of Ontario, who has seen western Canada from the air, land and water, today was interested in an underground sightseeing tour of the Pioneer Mine, one of the biggest producers in the Bridge River gold mining area.

The Premier, who arrived by plane from Vancouver yesterday at Gun Lake, seven miles from here, came for the tour of examination with J. P. Bickell of Toronto and Ben Smith of New York, both of whom are interested in the mine.

The trio spent the night at Smith's log chalet on Gun Lake, entirely without communication with the outside world until an automobile was sent from here this morning to pick them up.

RADIO EXTENDS HUNT FOR CLIPPER

MANILA (AP)—In the faint hope the Hawaii Clipper reached land with the 15 men she carried when she disappeared last week, all telegraph and radio stations on the Pacific Ocean side of eight Philippine islands, were brought into the hunt for clues today. The stations were instructed to contact persons in the wild and remote areas along the islands. These areas have been carefully searched by army and navy planes.

Belated Confession

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—A Spanish-American War bulletin which a Minneapolis newspaper printed 40 years ago has been corrected.

On September 14, 1898, the paper listed Jesse L. Stegner as one of the United States volunteers who died at Manila.

Stegner walked into the newspaper office the other day and said he was not killed. He said he had been too busy during the last 40 years to have the item corrected.

The paper, at Stegner's suggestion, printed a correction.

British See No Soviet-Japan War

By J. F. SANDERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON — Russian-Japanese fighting for disputed territory on the Manchukuo frontier is regarded in official circles here as a border incident which is unlikely to lead to a flare-up.

Official reports from Tokyo and Moscow stress "no need for alarm."

The British Government does not see any need of mediation, but unofficial reports stress the possibility of third party assistance in delineation of the frontier. Incidents along the frontier between Manchukuo and Russia have been numerous in the last few years and none led to war. Commenting on this fact, the Manchester Guardian, Liberal, says that "in this case Russia and Japan would seem to have the best reason for keeping the peace," adding:

"Japan already is engaged in one war which is taxing her strength to the utmost; her relations with Great Britain and the United States, the other great powers of the Pacific, are by no means good, and recent reports have suggested she is now faced with serious trouble in Manchukuo itself."

"Russia, though in a stronger position, is well aware that to become involved in a war with Japan would encourage Germany to strike in Europe, which she is anxious to prevent. War on two fronts is the last thing she desires."

36 Injured In Hawaiian Riot

Demonstrators on Hilo Waterfront Suffer Buckshot and Other Wounds

HILO, Hawaii (AP)—Thirty-six persons were treated today for buckshot wounds and other injuries suffered in the fiercest labor riot in Hilo's recent history. More than 130 officers armed with riot guns and tear gas today patrolled streets left tense by the riot.

Prominent business men were among 56 men sworn in as special deputies and assigned to guard strategic points, particularly territorial property.

The steamship Waialeale sailed last night after unloading her cargo, cause of the riot which reached its height when police fired on longshore pickets. Members of the national guard who were among the demonstrators showed their military training by picking up tea gas bombs and hurling them back at police.

The fight started when the Waialeale docked from Honolulu in defiance of a strike called by longshoremen May 27 when contract negotiations with the company collapsed.

STORMS AND HEAT MIXED IN BRITAIN

LONDON (AP)—Storms swept across western England today, battering crops and felling trees, but most of the island sweltered in a heat wave.

The most severe rainstorm in 40 years flooded streets in the southwest corner of England to a depth of eight feet. Motorists had to use headlights during the day.

The heat belt extended from the south coast to Scotland and thousands slept on benches, fields and roadsides. Yesterday's peak temperatures were 86 in Brighton and 85 in London.

Defence Minister Coming to Victoria

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Dominion Government does not at present contemplate any additional fortifications along the British Columbia coast other than those provided in the budget. Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, stated as he passed through Winnipeg last night en route to Vancouver and Victoria.

While at the coast the minister will inspect the naval base at Esquimaux, and also make a tour of workshops at present in Pacific waters.

The minister will stop at Calgary for a visit to the Turner Valley oilfields.

Boys Greet King

SOUTHWOLD (AP)—The King came here in a rowboat today to visit 400 boys holidaying in the camp he sponsored when he was Duke of York. As he jumped ashore the boys mobbed him.

The King interrupted a holiday cruise aboard the royal yacht Victoria and Albert to see the camp, which is made up of public school boys and boys working in factories.

barracks which could house 250,000 troops. Military observers believe the Kwantung army (guardian force of Manchukuo) named from the Kwantung leased territory, which was under Russian jurisdiction until the Russo Japanese war) could fight for a year as an independent unit, almost without assistance from Japan proper.

Fifty Soviet warplanes composed the attacking force in Tuesday's frontier incident, said dispatches here. The Japanese army declared five raiders were shot down, four of them inside the border of Japanese Korea. (One Soviet plane was shot down and the pilot probably captured, Moscow said. A Russian communique said Japanese losses were heavy).

SERIOUS DISCUSSION

MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign military observers had viewed the current Siberia-Manchukuo border trouble as likely to be only another of a series of indecisive disputes when it started July 11, but the large scale battle of Sunday and Monday inspired a far more serious outlook.

A Soviet communique said more than 400 Japanese were killed or wounded, and 13 Russian soldiers were killed and 55 wounded. (Japanese versions estimated the Russian casualties at 600.)

The Russian account charged that Japanese forces invaded Soviet territory in the Changkufeng hills district, a distance of two and a half miles before being driven back, but that Soviet troops did not pursue them across the Manchukuo border.

(Japanese contended the Russians had fortified Manchukuo territory, which they said included Changkufeng Hill (in poorly mapped territory). The Japanese attacked to drive them out, whereupon the Russians withdrew into their own territory.)

The Russians captured five artillery pieces and 14 machine guns, and lost a tank and field piece. One Soviet plane was brought down, the communique admitted, and the pilot who parachuted to the ground likely was captured.

HSINKING, Manchukuo (AP)—Japanese planes maintained a constant patrol over Hsinking today as Kwantung army officials kept close watch on the Siberian border situation. Army headquarters said no additional troops were being moved toward the border at present.

THREE DEATHS MARK REUNION

TORONTO (CP)—Casualties were heavy as 100,000 members of the Canadian Corps held their reunion here—three dead, more than 300 injured in some 70 automobile and other accidents and more than 40 collapses.

Owen J. Callen and J. Fraser were killed in a car crash Saturday night in which two other war veterans were injured seriously. The third death occurred Sunday when C. Adams, a crippled veteran of the 4th Battalion, died suddenly after a tour of the French village.

Adams had been unable to rise from a wheel chair for years. A medical examination shortly before his death showed his leg had been broken. How he suffered the injury is not known.

FLOODS IN JAPAN CAUSE WIDE RUIN

TOKIO (AP)—Domei (Japanese news agency) reported torrential rains lashed Kobe today, swelling the Tenno River, smashing dikes and one bridge and flooding 60 houses. Casualties were not mentioned.

In Shikoku prefecture, 7,000 houses were destroyed or damaged.

U.S. May Have Health Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—The growing controversy over co-operative medicine in the United States brought predictions from federal officials today that a broad national health program would be included next winter in a new government reorganization bill.

The program, which would cost the federal and state governments $850,000,000 a year, was suggested recently by a committee appointed by President Roosevelt to study the country's health problem.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (CP)—One woman was killed and eight critically injured when the floor of a dance hall collapsed, hurling scores of dancers to a lower floor, at a party in nearby Bartica last night.

Young Diver Makes Gear To See Fish COAL OIL CAN AND BIKE PUMP

Roy Fitchett, 12, Provides
Thrill For Victoria West
Youngsters

Twelve-year-old Roy Fitchett, who lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Fitchett, at 637 Pine Street in Victoria West, is getting a new slant on the world from the fish's point of view.

Young Roy is pretty handy at making things. He took third place in this year's soap box derby with a racer constructed entirely in the shed at the back of the Fitchett home. Since then the machine has acquired a rakish covered top, and Roy's futuristic coupe is a common sight on the Victoria West sidewalks.

Roy got the idea of making himself a diving helmet from watching some older boys experimenting along those lines last summer.

The helmet he produced is a remarkably serviceable contraption. It is neat and sturdy—and it works.

Roy does not go into deep water with it. He spends most of his submarine time sitting on the bottom with his head a few inches below the water, for safety.

For the moment underwater exploration—which seems a fairly popular sport in Victoria West—is in abeyance. The juvenile officer has been around having a chat with some of the older boys who have been venturing as far as 14 feet down, which is not very safe with a home-made helmet.

The basis of Roy's helmet is a four-gallon kerosene can. One end is open, with two of the sides cut away in semi-circles to fit over the wearer's shoulders, and the edge all round lined with rubber hose for comfort. The helmet is held in place on the head with wires which loop around the belt of his swimming trunks.

In the front of the can an eight by six-inch pane of glass is sealed in place with iron cement and putty. It gives a clear view over quite a wide radius. Just for safety crossed steel strips protect the glass. The air comes in through the top by way of a tire valve, which assures that water pressure will not force the air out again.

Ten feet of rubber hose runs from the valve to a good-sized tire pump. All Roy needs is a friend to man the pump, and he is off to see what the fishes see.

Runciman On Praha Mission

Goes From Britain to Explore and Suggest Settlement in Czechoslovakia

LONDON (CP)—Viscount Runciman left today for Praha on a mission demanding all the tact and diplomacy for which the shipping magnate and former president of the British Board of Trade is noted. If successful in mediating Czechoslovakia's tangled Sudeten German problem he will contribute a lasting chapter to Great Britain's efforts to restore peace.

The former cabinet minister goes as an unofficial mediator, not as an arbitrator. He does not represent the British Government and takes no prepared British plan to restore peace to Europe's latest danger zone.

But if Lord Runciman evolves a plan which appeals to the British Government as a fair and amicable solution, it might form the basis of an official British suggestion.

Of his plans, Lord Runciman only said:

"I hope to spend some time interviewing representatives of both sides and also visiting some of the parts where the political contrast is more strongly marked."

New Shaw Play Seen

LONDON (AP)—The critics were not greatly impressed today with George Bernard Shaw's newest play, in which he places fanciful caricatures of Germany's Chancellor Hitler, Italy's Premier Mussolini and the Spanish insurgent general Franco on trial before a court of international justice.

"The jokes are familiar" and the play was a "remarkable combination of high spirits and long-windedness," said the London Daily Mail.

China Guerillas Retake Areas

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

SHANGHAI — The Japanese army is threatened with loss of effective control of areas captured since hostilities began July 7, 1937, a survey indicates.

Continued resistance by the Chinese, ambush and surprise offensives by Chinese Communist and irregular armies, the Russo-Manchukuo border tension, and the need for all available forces in pressing the offensive toward Hankow are the reasons.

Reports from widespread areas show the Chinese already have recaptured many districts, sometimes without a fight after tactical withdrawals by the Japanese and frequently after the capture of small garrisons.

Reoccupations are scattered, however, and the Chinese appear not yet to have taken full advantage of the situation.

ALONG RAILWAYS

Starting with the initial Peiping clash, the Japanese during the last year drove Chinese armies out and nominally occupied Hopeh, Shansi, Shantung, Kiangsu, Anhwei, North Honan and North Chekiang Provinces.

Actually, however, the Japanese occupied only major cities and towns controlling railways and highways. It is these armies that now are slipping into the areas in which Japanese have weakened their garrisons.

The Hankow offensive still centred Tuesday about Kiukiang, 135 miles down river from the provisional capital of China.

The Japanese command announced capture of Susung, 30 miles north of Kiukiang.

date is 374 fires, more than double last year's figure of 178.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, will go to Comox tomorrow to survey conditions; discuss plans with logging operators and forest officials on the scene.

Mr. Gray said all available equipment has been stationed in the area to meet any emergency that may come if the wind springs up. Mr. Gray said at the height of the fire pumers were obtained from Seattle, Portland and San Francisco.

HANEY, B.C. (CP)—A forest fire described as the worst in lower British Columbia mainland today burned unabated along two fronts near the Fraser valley settlement, and forest officials said it would take two weeks to extinguish it unless rain came.

A brief shower yesterday slowed progress of the blaze, which already had advanced an estimated six miles in length and was half a mile across at its widest part.

Three hundred men working day and night failed to stop the fire. Since Thursday it has spread from slash on the Baines Logging Company's property to a point less than a mile from a British Columbia Electric power station at Stave Lake.

TOLEDO NEWS BEE Ceases to Publish

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—The Toledo News Bee, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, announced that with its final edition today it was suspending publication. The statement said "the News Bee for several years has been published at a loss. . . . The decision to retire from the field was based on the conviction finally two afternoon newspapers cannot be published with fair profit for both in Toledo."

The other afternoon paper here is the Toledo Blade, published by Paul Block.

U.S. SPY TRIAL

Score of Jobless Pause in Trail

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Twenty unemployed men moved quietly into Trail today after dropping off a freight train from Grand Forks and are expected to go on to Nelson either late today or in the morning.

One of the men stated they were part of the 500 unemployed who had been promised relief while looking for work. They had come from Grand Forks and were going to go through the Kootenays.

China Guerillas Retake Areas

By LLOYD LEHRBAS
Associated Press Foreign Staff

SHANGHAI — The Japanese army is threatened with loss of effective control of areas captured since hostilities began July 7, 1937, a survey indicates.

Continued resistance by the Chinese, ambush and surprise offensives by Chinese Communist and irregular armies, the Russo-Manchukuo border tension, and the need for all available forces in pressing the offensive toward Hankow are the reasons.

Reports from widespread areas show the Chinese already have recaptured many districts, sometimes without a fight after tactical withdrawals by the Japanese and frequently after the capture of small garrisons.

Reoccupations are scattered, however, and the Chinese appear not yet to have taken full advantage of the situation.

ALONG RAILWAYS

Starting with the initial Peiping clash, the Japanese during the last year drove Chinese armies out and nominally occupied Hopeh, Shansi, Shantung, Kiangsu, Anhwei, North Honan and North Chekiang Provinces.

Actually, however, the Japanese occupied only major cities and towns controlling railways and highways. It is these armies that now are slipping into the areas in which Japanese have weakened their garrisons.

The Hankow offensive still centred Tuesday about Kiukiang, 135 miles down river from the provisional capital of China.

The Japanese command announced capture of Susung, 30 miles north of Kiukiang.

date is 374 fires, more than double last year's figure of 178.

Hon. A. Wells Gray, Minister of Lands, will go to Comox tomorrow to survey conditions; discuss plans with logging operators and forest officials on the scene.

Mr. Gray said all available equipment has been stationed in the area to meet any emergency that may come if the wind springs up. Mr. Gray said at the height of the fire pumers were obtained from Seattle, Portland and San Francisco.

HANEY, B.C. (CP)—A forest fire described as the worst in lower British Columbia mainland today burned unabated along two fronts near the Fraser valley settlement, and forest officials said it would take two weeks to extinguish it unless rain came.

A brief shower yesterday slowed progress of the blaze, which already had advanced an estimated six miles in length and was half a mile across at its widest part.

Three hundred men working day and night failed to stop the fire. Since Thursday it has spread from slash on the Baines Logging Company's property to a point less than a mile from a British Columbia Electric power station at Stave Lake.

TOLEDO NEWS BEE Ceases to Publish

TOLEDO, O. (AP)—The Toledo News Bee, a Scripps-Howard newspaper, announced that with its final edition today it was suspending publication. The statement said "the News Bee for several years has been published at a loss. . . . The decision to retire from the field was based on the conviction finally two afternoon newspapers cannot be published with fair profit for both in Toledo."

The other afternoon paper here is the Toledo Blade, published by Paul Block.

PREVENTING ANIMAL DISEASE IS OBJECT

VANCOUVER (GP)—The great function of veterinarians of the future will be prevention of diseases among animals, according to Dr. Ernest C. McCullough of the experimental station, Puyallup, Wash.

Addressing the Pacific Northwest Veterinary Medical Association convention here yesterday, Dr. McCullough spoke on tests employed for the diagnosis of mastitis. The convention continued today.

SWISS FASCISTS FIGHT POLICE

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP)—A dozen persons were injured today when police clashed with members of the Fascist "National Front" who defied an order forbidding them to demonstrate.

Police charged the crowd with nightsticks after the demonstrators had refused to disperse. The frontists, many of them women, stood their ground, fighting back at the police.

The National Front is the largest movement seeking to overthrow Switzerland's traditional democracy. It has its headquarters in Zurich and is powerful in eastern Switzerland, where the German language is spoken.

The party closely copies Adolf Hitler's National Socialism.

COMPLETES 100TH ATLANTIC FLIGHT

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—Capt. Joachim von Blankenburg, veteran German commercial pilot, completed his 100th Atlantic flight today, landing the catapult seaplane Nordmeer at this international flying harbor at 2.17 p.m. (E.D.T.), 10.17 a.m. (P.S.T.).

He and his crew of three took off from the mother ship, Schwabenland, at Horta, the Azores, at 8.30 p.m. yesterday, completing the 2,397 miles in 17 hours 57 minutes.

Body of Girl Found in Weeds

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)—Sheriff Seth A. Adamson today said the body of a girl found in a clump of weeds near St. Charles, S.D., had been identified as that of Betty Schnaidt, 17, Sioux Falls, who disappeared last Thursday night.

The body, bound hand and foot with heavy wrapping cord and with a towel knotted around the neck, was discovered about 50 yards back from the east shore of Lake Berry, west of St. Charles, by Art Woods, 26, a farmer.

Poison Killed Four

MONTREAL (CP)—The four victims of the east end drinking party died of methyl alcohol poisoning, Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert, testified at an autopsy today.

Sole survivor of the party, Omer Laroque, 33, returned to the hospital for further treatment after a coroner's inquest on the four dead resulted in a verdict of accidental death.

The victims were Rosario Leclerc, 59; Roland Leclerc, 27, his son; Mrs. Adrien Esjean, 36, and Joseph Legare, 48.

Four years ago he retired, and the past two years his weight dropped to a mere 247 pounds.

Veterans Home-bound After Toronto Reunion

Canadian Corps Gathering Closed in Liveliest of Scenes

TORONTO (CP)—The boys of the old brigade put away their medals and colored berets today, the Canadian Corps reunion having come to a roaring finish in the early hours of this morning.

Opened officially Friday night, the reunion swept through a lively Saturday, featured by a three-hour parade, and reached a solemn climax with Sunday's drumhead service in Riverdale Park's huge natural amphitheatre.

There, beneath a new moon last night, a crowd as large as the one Sunday, attended a sing-song and closing ceremonies.

Then from the east end park, crowds swarmed to the downtown section and joined thousands who had tied up Yonge Street traffic since nightfall. A new high for parades was set, with one to a block and a few others converging from side streets for good measure. It was impossible for any automobile to pass an intersection without being well and truly rocked.

Street cars had a rough time of it. Somebody evolved the idea of making a ritual about relaying the big red trolley. Let the motorman drink a glass of beer passed up to him on a tray stolen from some nearby beverage room and he could proceed.

In the final fling of the reunion they hoisted a grand piano into a street car and burned another on a corner. They sent a motorboat put-putting down Yonge Street—aboard an automobile trailer—and started bonfires at downtown intersections. They shot crap on the sidewalks and played crown and anchor in the gutters.

An estimated 10,000 veterans, the remnants of the 100,000 who got together "20 years after," participated in the last night of fun.

DOMINION-WIDE BODY

At a meeting yesterday of the presidents of the provincial associations a Dominion-wide Canadian Corps Association, uniting all the provincial organizations, was brought into being. Col. Charles R. Hill, Toronto, was elected president.

The Dominion constitution adopted provides that "the association shall be maintained for the purpose of uniting and giving leadership and direction to the work of the provincial associations."

There had not been a Dominion association previously. The Canadian Corps Association first was formed in Ontario four years ago, but it was only a provincial body. From it sprang other provincial organizations, each known as the Canadian Corps Association. It was announced after yesterday's meeting the Dominion organization would be known simply as the Canadian Corps Association.

Members of the Dominion council elected for one year include Col. H. L. Tobin, president of the Canadian Corps Association of British Columbia, Vancouver.

LIVING MEMORIAL

A living memorial to the units which made up the Canadian Corps in the form of a grove of trees was solemnly dedicated yesterday.

Coronation Park is a level stretch of land, recently reclaimed from Lake Ontario at the eastern entrance to the Canadian National Exhibition grounds.

ANCIENT CIGARETTES

Flood Devastation in Japan

Bulgaria Freed Of Arms Restrictions

LONDON (AP)—Bulgaria's old enemies, the Allied Powers of the Great War, today chorused approval of Balkan action freeing Bulgaria from post-war treaty restrictions on armaments and armies.

There appeared no bar to similar action by Hungary, only nation still nominally bound by the restrictions imposed by the victorious Allies.

Others of the wartime central powers—Germany and Turkey—some time ago threw off rearmament bonds.

In a pact signed Sunday at Salonika, the Balkan Entente—Greece, Turkey, Roumania and Yugoslavia—gave Bulgaria equality in maintaining her army, navy and air force and established a nonaggression agreement among the participating nations.

The move was regarded as regularization of Bulgaria's rearmament, which long has existed in fact.

To abrogate armaments clauses of the post-war Treaty of Neuilly, Bulgaria first obtained approval of the Balkan Entente and then off the record approval from treaty signatories—principally Great Britain and France.

Official approval of the signatories is expected to be asked soon and then the matter will be laid before the League of Nations Assembly for formal legislation as provided by Article 19 of the League Covenant, which requires Assembly approval for treaty revisions.

French Discover Element No. 93

PARIS (AP)—The noted physicist, Jean Perrin, informed the French Academy of Science today his collaborators had discovered what was believed to be the 93rd chemical element—a substance heavier than uranium.

The 68-year-old scientist, who is president of the academy, said the element had been found in stable form in minerals containing uranium, notably pitchblende.

By using a powerful spectroscopic, he said, the scientists had distinguished four new special lines which were believed to have been caused by the presence of transuranium, a nucleus whose atom would contain 93 positive charges.

Infinitesimal quantities of an element as high in the atomic scale as transuranium were produced by artificial radio-activity by the Italian physicist Enrico Fermi four years ago, Perrin said, but in the present case it would be in natural and stable form and production in appreciable quantities could be hoped for.

Further laboratory experiments were being made, he said. Perrin, regarded by many as one of the leading physicists in the world, established a reputation at 27 when he attracted attention of scientists by a thesis dealing with cathodic and X-rays.

After that he devoted his attention to Brownian motion, the vibratory movement of water supposedly caused by atomic disturbances, and to other subjects related to the atom.

ALBERTA LANDS FOR HALF-BREDS

EDMONTON (CP)—Health Minister W. W. Cross yesterday announced completion of a tentative agreement between the Alberta government and the province's approximately 2,500 half-breed families whereby the metis would receive 320 acres of land a family or a total of about 70 townships throughout Alberta.

Climaxing negotiations under way for several years, the draft agreement was finished last week when Dr. Cross attended a meeting at Jossard, Alta., with the Metis' executive council of eight men.

"It was agreed that the metis should have tracts of land set aside for them in different parts of the province," said the minister. "The size of these tracts is to be regulated according to the number of metis families adjacent and willing to move into these areas."

"The metis' executive council is to pick the locations, which will be subject to approval of the government."

LARGE ACCIDENT TOLL IN CANADA

TORONTO (CP)—A long week-end of fine weather—many Canadians celebrated Monday as civic holiday—left a large toll of dead and injured across the country. A recapitulation of fatalities today showed at least 53 persons dead, 22 after automobile accidents, 20 by drowning and 11 in other mishaps.

Quebec led in the toll with 21, including four persons who died of poisoning after a rubbing alcohol debacle; Ontario reported 20 deaths, 16 of them Saturday and Sunday; Nova Scotia and Manitoba had four each, and British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick one each.

Airport For City Again Discussed

R. W. Mayhew and R. H. B. Ker to See Hon. C. D. Howe; Not Optimistic

R. W. Mayhew, M.P., and R. H. B. Ker, chairman of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce's aviation committee, will interview Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport, in Vancouver on Thursday on the matter of an airport for Victoria.

But the directors of the chamber, in a debate at their luncheon yesterday which preceded that decision, did not receive any encouragement for their hopes of the city obtaining a landing field in the near future. "I am thoroughly sick of the whole business. It looks absolutely hopeless," Mr. Ker told the meeting.

"We cannot have a licensed landing field without spending some money. I do not think the City Council is likely to do anything in that direction. In fact I don't think it can afford to. It looks discouraging."

He suggested the first pressure towards the expenditure of civic funds on an airport should come from the public, not from civic bodies.

MUST TAKE FIRST STEP

Duncan MacBride, president of the chamber, told the directors that municipalities in other parts of Canada had obtained assistance from the Dominion Government in the building of landing fields, but in each case they had taken the first step by obtaining the land and voting a proportion of the money needed.

"The Dominion is willing to help, but it is absolutely up to the city to take the first step," added Mr. Ker.

Questioned on a report that the military airfield now under construction in the Patricia Bay-Sidney area might be used as a terminal for Transcanada Air ways, Mr. Ker said Hon. Ian MacKenzie, Minister of National Defence, had said positively a year ago that his department would not countenance joint military-civil airfields.

TWO PLANES DETAINED

The discussion arose after George I. Warren, secretary, had reported two cases in which planes had been detained through confusion in air matters here.

In one case a few days ago a Port Angeles pilot, engaged to bring two baseball players here, had telephoned the Victoria customs office before taking off. The customs office being closed he had been connected with the immigration department, which had told him it was all right to land here. On landing his plane had been confiscated because there was no licensed airport. The machine had only been freed after representations by the chamber through the Collector of Customs to Ottawa.

In the other case a young pilot had been incorrectly told by the Victoria customs office that Everett, Wash., was a legal point of entry into the United States. On landing there his machine had been seized, and though it had now been released he still faced the possibility of a $500 fine.

Chamber Offers Aid On Transportation

The Chamber of Commerce will offer to the City Council to set up a committee to co-operate with the city on the transportation question, the chamber directors decided at a luncheon meeting yesterday.

The suggestion was made by a group of members that if buses replaced the present street car service at the expiry of the B.C. Electric franchise in December the main route of travel might be changed from Fort and Douglas Streets to Pandora Avenue, with consequent loss of business to some stores.

HITLER EXPANDS PAPER

VIENNA (CP-Havas)—The first full-size Vienna edition of the Voelkischer Beobachter, Chancellor-Hitler's personal newspaper, appeared last night with a front page message from the Fuehrer expressing his "joy and satisfaction that the party organ now has an edition comparable to the importance of our march in the German east."

Dear Son:

We welcome you and Helen back from your honeymoon. After you've settled a bit, we'll drop in to see your new home.

I remember the day, some 30 years ago, when your Mother and I came back to our first home. I split kindling for the cast-iron kitchen stove, and it took Mother all afternoon to bake some bread. Instead of her vacuum-cleaner, Mother had a broom . . . and how she made it fly. But our prize possession was in the parlor . . . a REAL talking-machine, with chubby cylinder-records and a big morning-glory horn.

We used to march for miles all over town on our shopping trips. How I fidgeted while Mother shopped. We were both worn out.

Things have changed a lot since then, all right—and you'll both be better off for it. Helen won't have to spend half HER days in the kitchen like Mother used to. The advertisements in the daily newspaper will save her those punishing miles of shopping. They'll keep her posted on current values, give her the names of dependable products, tell her all about special sales. When you come home nights you'll find her fresh as a daisy . . . ready for a jolly evening with your friends.

I'll trade the "good old days" for the good NEW days ANY day.

But enough of reminiscence . . . I rejoice in the exciting years of youth that are ahead for you both.

Affectionately,
Dad

TUESDAY, AUGUST 2, 1938

Russia and Japan

THE SECOND RUSSO-JAPANESE WAR
Is On? This is not meant to interpret the news from Moscow and Tokyo displayed on the front page of this newspaper yesterday and today. It is the title of the first and leading article in the issue of The Saturday Evening Post dated August 6, 1938, which went to press about five weeks ago. Strangely prophetic, especially when pondered in conjunction with cabled dispatches, are the following brief extracts from the beginning of the Post's narrative:

"For almost seven years, since that September night in 1931 when the blowing up of a railroad signaled the start of the Japanese occupation of Manchuria, the world has been waiting for the outbreak of war between Russia and Japan. The world is still waiting, because it is not yet aware that a second Russo-Japanese war already has broken out.

"This may sound like a sensational exaggeration, but I believe it is a plain statement of fact. The technique of waging wars has been changing so rapidly, like so many other techniques in this modern world, that we have not yet learned to recognize a streamlined war when we see it.

"The second Russo-Japanese war introduces what may be described as the concealed war. This is only one of several novel types of war which have been presented recently by ingenious designers. It is an improvement on the earlier types of undeclared wars which ushered in a new era in international conflicts. Its appearance, like other revolutionary innovations, has upset earlier techniques and thrown into confusion all those concerned with the making of war and peace, including statesmen, politicians, reformers and newspaper correspondents.

"Russia, which claims credit for many innovations, did not originate the undeclared war. We have seen such wars in Manchuria and in China, in Abyssinia and in Spain. But Russia took the basic idea and made a good deal more out of it. Stalin's regime was the first to discover that a major war can be waged not only without being declared but even without being noticed."

If most of us had missed this war to which the Post writer introduces us, we can watch the march of events and see how they compare with the narrative. The various "incidents" on the Manchukuo-Russian border which from time to time have seemed dangerously menacing at this distance have died down. The state of affairs as this is written, however, suggests that if a much bigger issue already has not been joined, the explosive atmosphere which today's events reflect may well be the preliminary to another vicious war of incalculable consequences.

These more recent developments, in any case, furnish a good deal of material for speculation. We have been told that Japan already is in serious economic straits, that she is suffering from lack of raw materials essential to her prosecution of a protracted war in China, that her lengthening line of communication in her neighbor's territory daily is adding to the cost of her operations, and that, generally, the glory and temporary advantage accruing to her through her victories in the field are hollow both in the moral and material sense.

Russia, on the other hand, having lived up to her nonaggression pledge of several years ago, calmly announces that her armed forces are equal to any demands which may be made on them by an outside foe with sinister designs of conquest. Thus, if "The Second Russo-Japanese War Is On," how will Japan fare in the light of her present domestic condition—also with a colossal job on her hands in China?

"A Question of An Election"

NOW THAT ALL THE BRITISH COLUMBIA delegates to the recent Conservative convention have settled down to work again it may be assumed they are sorting out their impressions of the proceedings at Ottawa and are trying to make up their minds what would be the proper thing to say during the months which intervene before the next federal general election. One or two of the province's representatives, of course, have submitted themselves to newspaper interviews, but for the most part their observations have scarcely gone beyond the bounds of generality and platitude. It was a most harmonious convention, Dr. Manion was the logical choice for the leadership, the Empire is much safer now, and all that sort of thing—with which there will be neither argument nor serious quarrel.

If our local delegates do not feel like letting themselves go, however, their reticence has no guide to Colonel Nelson Spencer, former member of the provincial Legislature for Vancouver City, who has reached some very definite conclusions in connection with the National Conservative Party in general and its newly-chosen leader in particular. "From conversations I had, and from information I gathered," said he, "Dr. R. J. Manion will be the next leader of the government of Canada." And with the delegates and others with whom this Vancouver representative had conversed the feeling seemed to be that "it is just a question of an election." This attitude of mind appeared to be supported by the general contention that "this government has lost the confidence of the people." Colonel Spencer summed up more specifically in this way:

"Never has a political party in Canada had such unanimity, due chiefly to the lead given by R. B. Bennett, Senator Arthur Meighen and Sir Thomas White. I never heard such speeches as those men delivered.

"I think Mr. Bennett's was the most notable performance he has made, because outside of his capacity to arouse people he was inspired to say the right thing.

"Senator Meighen's speech aroused the enthusiasm of the Anglo-Saxon delegates, but raised some animosity among the French, but before Mr. Bennett got through the Quebec delegates were up and cheering.

"When he asked them for wholehearted co-operation of the Dominion with other parts of the Commonwealth of the Empire, saying the only way to maintain our freedom was to give support to the Empire, the entire audience rose to its feet and cheered him to the rafters. It was the greatest wholehearted ovation I have ever seen a man receive."

What the majority of the delegates to the convention really thought about the Bennett-Meighen-White lead, what impression the former Prime Minister really left on the assembled faithful, and what the Quebec contingent really thought of the retired leader—both when its members "coughed" and "shuffled their feet" and when they "were up cheering"—is no doubt considered by the rank and file to be more or less immaterial. They are naturally trying to seize upon anything which transpired at the convention, outside of the shattered strategy of the two former Conservative Prime Ministers, which will encourage them to believe, too, that "it is just a question of an election" to confirm Colonel Spencer's view that "this government has lost the confidence of the people."

It is not easy for us to discover just what happened at that Ottawa meeting to lead the most hide-bound and implacably optimistic Conservative to suggest that all Dr. Manion requires is the medium of an electoral test to convince the people of Canada that he and not Mr. Mackenzie King should be Prime Minister of this Dominion. When he considers the time opportune, however, perhaps our own Mr. Anson will give us his more specific version of the convention's proceedings and let us judge for ourselves how nearly—or otherwise—it accords with that of Colonel Spencer.

Encouraging Words

DURING THE COURSE OF HIS SPEECH before the Canadian Club on Saturday night, Hon. James A. Farley, Postmaster-General in President Roosevelt's cabinet, said he was interested in the proposed highway to Alaska through British Columbia, that "both countries are going to benefit by it and I see no reason why it should not go through."

Mr. Farley made it clear that he had talked with Prime Minister Pattullo about it. "He is an enthusiast for it and I don't think he is far wrong," the distinguished visitor added, that "the whole United States is interested in it and many eyes are turned on Canada today."

A high official of a foreign government naturally has to be guarded in what he says in public away from home. Mr. Farley obviously referred as specifically as he could to the subject in which the whole of British Columbia is intensely interested. His comment here was highly encouraging. Mr. Pattullo can be depended upon to keep up the good work he has begun and to which he has given much time and thought.

A farmer in Binghamton says a 100-year-old mowing machine he uses gets better all the time. Mow power to it.

The Swiss are reported spending money "hand over fist" on an elaborate defence program. Would it not be cheaper if they simply cornered the ski market?

A bright young man has just invented a splashless egg-beater. Now that the kitchen has been made livable why doesn't somebody come through with a splashless automobile tire?

Declaration of the Italians that they like German Nazis are of the Aryan race and that Jews are not, would be inconvincing in United States Supreme Court. The Supreme Court has declared, in effect, that there is no such animal as an Aryan. That was in 1923, when lawyers for Bhagat Singh Thind, a high caste Hindu, contended he was a white person eligible for naturalization as an American citizen. Bhagat came from Punjab, in northwestern India, it was claimed, and that meant he was an Aryan. But the Court declared: "The Aryan theory as a racial basis seems to be discredited by most, if not all, modern writers on the subject of ethnology." It cited a string of authorities.

CANADA'S ANNUITY CHICKEN COMES HOME TO ROOST

From Financial Post
Taxpayers saw evidence of one government chicken coming home to roost last week when they were assessed $5,000,000 (an "ordinary" expenditure) to build up the reserve of the Government Annuity Fund. The normal transfer has been less than $200,000 annually.

Referring to this in his 600th address last week, Finance Minister Dunning explained that the increase was due to a revaluation of liabilities on the basis of increased annuity rates now in effect. He stated the $5,000,000 appropriation was only a rough estimate pending completion of actuarial calculations by the Department of Labor.

Early in 1931—over seven years ago—the Financial Post published a series of articles exposing the unsound character of the Government Annuities Fund. At that time figures were published to indicate that the fund was already insolvent to the tune of at least $1,500,000.

Lesson in Europe's Politics

By PETER STURSBURG

BUDAPEST.
SUCH A POOR COUNTRY," said the tall young landowner with the large mop of hair, sitting down in the carriage beside me. "Such a small country, and so backward."

The Hungarian coachman in his black felt hat with the broad feather down the centre and grey uniform swung the two smartly-stepping Arab horses down a dusty country road lined with tall poplar trees.

"So stupid of us to keep quarrelling with our neighbors," the young landowner continued. "We may not like Czechoslovakia and Roumania, but there is no need for us to keep shouting in their faces 'We hate you.' Of course they will not buy from us. And now that Austria has gone, we are in the hands of Germany and Italy. And what can we do with the mark and the lira?"

"You see," he said, speaking of the Nazis in Hungary, "there have always been two parties in Hungary. Long ago when the Turks were invading Europe, one side, which represented the wild dark people, said that we were Oriental and should side with the Turks, while the other side said we were now Occidental and should oppose them. Then during the Austro-Hungarian Empire there were nationalists who wanted a free Hungary and the unionists who would stay in the empire. Now there are Nazis and non-Nazis, and it is interesting to note that the nationalists who wanted a free Hungary are now the Nazis who want to join with Germany, while opposed to them are the more cultivated element."

Out of a field of wheat came a band of peasants carrying their shoes in their hands. "Ah," said the rich young man, "the condition of the peasants is terrible. They get paid one pengo (20 cents) to one and one-half pengos (30 cents) a day, and they must work from 4 o'clock in the morning till 8 o'clock at night now during the harvest."

A couple walking along the road stopped, and the man deferentially took off his hat as we drove by.

"Why does he do that? I do not know," said the young landowner. "Any man with property in Hungary now is a lord."

PARIS FEASTS A KING

THE MOST ROYAL compliment in France is a good meal, and the old palace of Versailles never sheltered a better table than the one set there for King George and Queen Elizabeth. Some of the wines were so rare that President Lebrun had to requisition them from private cellars. Because the fish for a banquet for Louis XIV didn't arrive on time the chef Vatel committed suicide. Airplanes punctually brought the caviar for this meal from Moscow and the trout from an Alpine lake.

The two last rare champagnes were bottled in the years Queen Elizabeth and King George, respectively, were born. A special concession to British taste was the sweet Chateau Yquem with the chicken, which French gourmets consider barbaric. To Paul Carton, Paris restaurateur and president of the Association of French Chefs, and nine distinguished fellow "cordon bleus" went the coveted honor of preparing the feast. Although Carton said he would "prefer death" to a luncheon shorter than 20 courses, he finally had to cut the menu. All the night before they worked in the Damien courtyard of the chateau, transformed into a vast open-air kitchen. Seventy-five of the best "garcons" of Paris, in scarlet and blue liveries and powdered wigs, served the 200 guests on 2,000 pieces of priceless Limoges porcelain. For the wines each guest had 12 crystal goblets.

King George, recently ill of intestinal influenza, was not in ideal shape for this feast. But he honored the chefs by at least nibbling at each dish—he seemed to relish the quail particularly—and tasting every wine. On the official schedule somebody made an ungallie error: only 45 minutes were allotted to the luncheon. Actually the guests remained at table over two hours.

In addition, the luncheon cost $27,500—1,000,000 francs.

THE STORY OF RUTH

To the Editor:—Your leading editorial of July 30, epitomizing in brief the immortal story of Ruth, and her adventurous faith in the God of Israel, comes as a refreshing breeze amid the sultry reports of hate and persecution of the Jews which has been practiced with such dire results to this ancient race in Nazi Germany.

The ancient Jews, and some of the early Christian fathers, accounted Ruth a part of, or appendix to, the Book of Judges. The author of the book of Ruth is unknown, and it could not have been written sooner than the time of David, for his name is mentioned at the end of the book (Ruth 4:22), and one of the objects of the book evidently was to illustrate David's genealogy. Another probable object in the writing of the book, and in it being placed in the Canon, was to pre-empt the adoption of a Gentile woman, Ruth, into the family from which Christ was to derive his human origin, the final reception of members of the Gentile nations into the true church as fellow-heirs of the "salvation of the gospel" (Eph. 2:11-22; Rev. 5:9).

The ethical value of the Book of Ruth is considerable, as setting forth an example of steadfast filial piety. The action of Ruth in refusing to desert her mother-in-law and persevering in accompanying her to her own land meets with its due reward in the prosperity and happiness which becomes hers, and in the honor which she receives as ancestress of the royal house of David. The writer of the book shows in the person and example of Ruth that a sincere and generous regard for the claims of duty and affection leads to prosperity and honor, and at the same time that the principles and recompense of righteous dealing are not dependent upon race, but are as valid for a Moabitess as for a Jew.

There is no distinctive doctrine taught in the book. It is primarily historical, recording a decisive incident in the origin of David's house; and in the second place ethical, indicating and enforcing in a well-known example the advantage and importance of right dealing and the observance of the dictates of filial duty. More editorials of this nature, I feel sure, will be most cordially received by large numbers of your readers, one of whom I have had the privilege of being for over 25 years.

CADBORO SAURUS ECLIPSED
To the Editor:—Perhaps readers of your paper will be interested to learn of a monster, out our way, that for size and strength makes your Cadborosaurus look like a dim shadow in the moonlight.

Although soil and rock have tremendous resistance, yet this land monster convulses the earth in a way quite unknown to the waters of Cadboro Bay. In removing earth for the Patricia Bay air port it will, in one shift, do the work of 2,000 men and 2,000 horses. Very few men are employed and hundreds who expected work stand, with stomachs drawn in, wondering at this metal monster as it rips up the earth, reputedly to "protect them and all they hold dear." Take a look at them, their homes and surroundings and then conclude, they hold so little wonder to them it is "dear."

Is this craze for military strength for the safety of the average citizen (only seven in 100 are independent at 60) or is it mainly for the 60 big shots who practically own and control Canada in their own interests (Stevens Probe) and whose power is made possible by the votes of the 93 out of 100 who have little or nothing at 60?

MURDER NO CRIME?

To the Editor:—A lecturer tells the current Summer School that "the world would be a much better place if nations limited themselves to two basic laws and kept them, these two laws being those against theft and lying."

This eliminates murder from the crime catalogue, and is the Fascist creed.

Thus the Matteotti murder in Italy was no crime. Hitler's blood-purge a few years back was no crime. And it was by this line of reasoning that the Medici finally persuaded the French king to consent to the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

THAT HEN-EGG PROBLEM

To the Editor:—Will you allow an old chicken raiser to tell you the answer to that hen-egg puzzle. If a chicken and a half lays an egg and a half in a day and a half, six hens in seven days will lay just 24 eggs. The reason is simple:

Each hen will lay one egg in a day and a half. There, at the end of 36 hours there will be six eggs.

In another 36 hours there will be 12 eggs, and so on to the end of the sixth day, when there will be 24 eggs.

No eggs at all will be laid on the seventh day, since no self-respecting hen ever laid two-thirds of an egg.

Therefore, at the end of the seventh day there would still be only 24 eggs. R. E. Rhodes.

Garden Lovers See Victoria

Visitors From Many Parts of
United States Visit Beautiful
Local Gardens

A group of garden lovers from many parts of the United States, who will spread stories of Victoria's beauties far and wide, came to Victoria Sunday from Seattle, spent the afternoon at Butchart's Gardens, heard a lecture on local horticulture and yesterday visited several of the city's best-known and most beautiful gardens.

The party of 81 garden lovers came here from a meeting in Seattle of the Federated Garden Clubs of America.

At Butchart Gardens they were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Butchart and their daughter, Princess Chikhamatoff, and met Sir Ernest and Lady Petter, enthusiastic English gardeners, who have recently come to make their home on Vancouver Island.

Following dinner at the Empress Hotel Sunday night, the visiting gardeners gathered in the Princess Louise suite to hear a lecture on Victoria gardens by W. H. Warren, city parks superintendent. H. U. Knight illustrated the lecture with some attractive pictures.

SAW LOCAL GARDENS

Yesterday the visitors saw the gardens of Hatley Park; "Clovelly," the residence of Lady Barnard; the rock garden of Capt. and Mrs. O. R. Parker at Esquimalt Drydock; "Robinswood," the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Semmes, and "Upton Grey," the home of Dr. and Mrs. Allan Fraser, both in the Uplands, and "Arden," the home of Mrs. H. R. Beaver on Beach Drive. After their tour they were entertained by Mrs. W. P. D. Pemberton at "Gonzales," her home on Foul Bay Road.

Among the leading gardeners in the city were: Mrs. E. C. Dalton Jr., past president of the Oregon Club; Mrs. Waldo Cummer, president of the club at Jacksonville, Florida; Mrs. S. A. Guberson, president of the Beverly Hills Club; Miss Charlotte Hoak of Pasadena, Mrs. Peter Corpstein, vice-president of the Pacific Coast region; Mrs. Gilbert Brown, past president of the Washington Club; Mrs. Houston L. Reusch, past president of the Seattle Club and chairman of the National Bird Commission; Mrs. F. S. Rau, secretary-treasurer of the Pacific Coast region; Mrs. Leonard B. Slonnon, past president of the Pacific Coast region; Mrs. W. C. Hurd, president of the Utah Club; Mrs. U. G. Smith, president of the Oregon Club; Mrs. Eunice Curtis, prominent garden lecturer; Mrs. Louis Oulmann of Seattle; Mrs. George Meyer, president of the San Francisco Garden Club; Mrs. G. H. Ostrander, vice-president of the Oregon Club; Mrs. H. F. Shedd, secretary-treasurer of the Oregon Club; Mrs. George Larson of Marshfield, vice-president of the Oregon Club, and Miss H. H. Roberts, professor of primitive music at Yale University, and owner of a magnificent estate on the borders of North and South Carolina.

GIVES ADVICE TO R.A.F. APPLICANTS

Some interesting advice for young Victorians, contemplating applying for positions in the Royal Air Force is contained in a letter to Captain H. Seymour-Biggs, 2697 Lincoln Road, from Frank Speed, Victoria youth now serving at Cardington, Bedford.

Frank is now senior man of his squad and has made good progress with the force since his arrival a few months ago.

For the benefit of those who may follow him Frank suggests that in selecting a trade when joining the force applicants should choose one in the highest group as successful study in these will lead the applicant to his pilot's license sooner.

After two months' recruit training the applicants go through another nine months' training after which they write their examinations. Students receiving from 40 to 60 per cent secure their Aircraftman Second Class, over 60 per cent gives them first class certificates, and if they gain over 80 per cent they become Leading Aircraftmen, which means they are eligible for their pilot's licenses. A higher education is required for an R.A.F. certificate, he points out.

Frank said his expenses at the camp were about one-third of his wages.

Captain Seymour-Biggs has received several letters from Victoria boys whom he has assisted in joining the force and other young men interested may have information concerning the training which has been passed along to him by these youths.

TRADES LICENSE ROUND-UP STARTS

The names of 20 local business men and business houses were called in the City Police Court yesterday as L. E. Gover, city license collector, started his semi-annual round-up of delinquent licensees.

In 15 of the cases called fines were paid which totaled the amount of the respective licenses plus $1 costs. Five cases were remanded, including two local lawyers, who requested a week's adjournment. A warrant was issued for one man who failed to appear.

The licenses being collected are those due for operations from January to June.

Was First Priest Ordained In West

Father Elie B. Rocan,
Pioneer of Prairies, Pays
Visit to City

Father Elie B. Rocan, first Roman Catholic priest to be ordained in Canada west of Port Arthur, has been visiting in the city for the last few days at the home of his niece, Mrs. Desmond Burdon-Murphy, 498 Beach Drive. He left Monday for New Westminster on his return to his home in St. Agathe, Manitoba.

Father Rocan is a native of Montreal, where he was born on March 14, 1868. His family moved to Winnipeg in 1872, where he went to school. He was graduated from the University of Manitoba in 1886, and was ordained in St. Boniface, Manitoba, on July 20, 1890. His ordination was the first performed in western Canada.

His first parish was in La Salle, Manitoba. He remained there for six years, and was transferred to St. Elizabeth, Manitoba, where he remained until 1915. He was then transferred to St. Agathe, where he has remained since.

St. Agathe is approximately 24 miles south of Winnipeg. Father Rocan has about 35 families in his parish.

Father Rocan will visit relatives in New Westminster and Kamloops. This is his first stay of any length in Victoria and the change of scenery and the beauties of the city has impressed him very much.

FIRE PROBE IS PRESSED

Attorney-General Demands
Close Investigation of Sabotage Reports

With the aid of rewards offered by the government for information leading to the conviction of saboteurs and incendiaries at the big Campbell River forest fire last week, Attorney-General Wismer said today he intended to press investigation of the alleged acts "right down the line."

Mr. Wismer said the authorities will leave no stone unturned to discover the culprits, who are stated to have cut hoses and put sugar into the tank of a gasoline pumper at Forbes Landing. He said there was no doubt the hoses were cut with knives or similar sharp instruments. They were not the kind of cuts that might have been made with an axe used in chopping roots.

It appeared in government circles today that the disastrous fire might have an outcome in a change in the province's fire-fighting policy, with increased funds for protection.

It was regarded as certain the matter will come up in the Legislature next fall. Colin Cameron, M.P.P. for Comox, who was on the scene, is expected to air various charges as to the responsibility for the fire reaching such proportions.

Protest Delay In United States Mail

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will back up the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau in a protest to the Post Office Department on delays in the present mail service between Victoria, Port Angeles and Seattle.

At their luncheon yesterday the directors were told that the mail from Seattle had been late two-thirds of the time since the granting of a new contract by the U.S. post office, and on some occasions letters which left the Puget Sound city at midnight were delivered here at the same time as those coming on the 9 a.m. C.P.R. sailing next day.

The change in the mail contract might also result in the Black Ball Company suspending its service between Victoria and the Olympic Peninsula during the winter, Harold Husband said.

Rebuilding farm fences is a big job, using up at least 400,000,000 posts in a year in this country alone.

Eviction Notes Stir Brentwood

Thirty-five Boathouse and Shackowners Given Notice to Vacate

Owners of 34 houseboats and shacks on the Brentwood Bay foreshore have been given notice to vacate by September 15 and remove their buildings from the place. J. E. Sladen, secretary-treasurer of the Brentwood Bay Parks Board, said today.

This is the first step in the board's plan to clean up the waterfront at the famous holiday spot and fishing centre, and is being met with opposition by some of those on whom notice has been served.

Those opposing the order are circulating a petition to the government asking that the board be restrained from carrying out the eviction. One house has been there for 30 years, it is stated.

"We realize it may cause a little hardship here and there," said Mr. Sladen, "but it is for the general good of everybody."

"The board's plan," he continued, "is to clean off all the shacks and boathouses, as was done at Kitsilano Beach in Vancouver. With the aid of the municipality we then propose to carry out improvements along the waterfront."

"I know there are a few of the owners opposing it, but the residents of Brentwood are solidly behind us. They petitioned for the formation of the board in the first place."

"We want to be reasonable and not too drastic, but we cannot make any exceptions on a thing like this. If owners do not comply with the order, our powers to deal with the situation are wide. We can tear the buildings down and charge the owners with the cost."

The board was set up by the provincial government a few months ago to deal specifically with the problem of the Brentwood waterfront. Its jurisdiction covers the foreshore between high and low water marks.

25 Years Ago

AUGUST 2, 1913
(From the Times Files)

Three young Japanese ladies who arrived here by the Sado Maru on Wednesday have been granted by the Supreme Court permission to marry the men they came here to wed.

H. G. Beall, physical director, and C. G. Raymond, religious and educational director of the local Y.M.C.A., have taken up their work again after being on vacation. Mr. Raymond returned with a wife to share his joys and sorrows.

The building permit for the Dominion Government Observatory on Gonzales Hill was issued yesterday afternoon to G. C. Hurrell, the successful contractor. The cost of the building will be about $11,900. The first intention was to build on Beacon Hill in part of the park reserve near the South Park School, but as the city had no power to alienate any section of the trust lands, this proposal had to be abandoned and land near the wireless station was secured for the site. The building will contain 12 rooms and will be constructed of concrete.

Mr. Wismer said the authorities will leave no stone unturned to discover the culprits, who are stated to have cut hoses and put sugar into the tank of a gasoline pumper at Forbes Landing. He said there was no doubt the hoses were cut with knives or similar sharp instruments. They were not the kind of cuts that might have been made with an axe used in chopping roots.

Indian Lands Finally Deeded

Title of Indian reserve lands in British Columbia, transfer of which to the Dominion Government was arranged by the Tolmie government nine years ago, has finally been vested in the federal authorities.

Signing of the formal order in council turning over the lands to Ottawa was announced here today.

The Indian lands were a subject of negotiation between the two governments for many years, going back almost to Confederation.

The Tolmie government in 1929 eventually made an agreement with the Dominion but its consummation was delayed until the signing today of the official order.

Five Die in Fire

LA GRANDE, Ore. (AP)—Five boys were burned to death today when their automobile struck a culvert and caught fire two miles west of Union.

The victims were identified as: Berton Bushman, 15; Clinton Bushman, 17; John Foley, 17; Leroy Foster, 16; Robert Myrick, 13. All were residents of Perry, about six miles west of La Grande.

The automobile failed to make a turn and apparently left the highway when the driver applied the brakes too sharply. Gasoline sprayed over three of the passengers in the rear seat. Their bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

SYSTEM MEETS PUPILS' NEEDS

Dr. H. B. King Tells Summer
School Teachers About
New Curriculum

The educational system today is adjusted to the individual needs of the pupil and is not a matter of forcing the student through a specialized course as it was in former years, Dr. H. B. King, technical adviser to the B.C. Department of Education, told teachers at the Victoria summer school session yesterday.

Speaking on "The Curriculum in Relation to Mental Hygiene," Dr. King dealt with curriculum changes which had altered the situation under which maladjustments had arisen which often stayed with the pupil to adult life.

The curriculum was not a body of content to be learned and reproduced but rather it was the sum total of collective experiences which was used in the guidance and growth of pupils, he said.

Desirable aims were promoted through purposeful activities and this objective was contained in the provincial program of study, he said.

It was the function of a teacher to give counsel and guidance and when there existed a proper system of counseling and guiding most of the problems of maladjustment were solved. This had been found to be the case where this was practiced in British Columbia, he said.

Education today was a question of serving one's personal needs more than it had been in the past and it was this objective which was the curriculum's aim.

ESQUIMALT LOOKS FOR INVESTMENTS

The Esquimalt Council will call for tenders for investments for a total of $12,700 available in the sewer loan, high school loan and bank overdraft sinking funds.

In discussing possible investments at their meeting last night the councillors saw an indication of the municipality's excellent standing, in the difficulty of obtaining Esquimalt bonds on the open market.

The municipal health officer was instructed to investigate the keeping of goats in back yards in the municipality. Councillor Thomas Hadfield reported several complaints from various districts.

A request from the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce that the municipal staff be given a half holiday tomorrow in connection with the parades was left in the hands of Reeve Alexander Lockley for decision. The granting of the holiday will depend on the dryness of the weather and the consequent fire menace.

The Esquimalt fire truck is manned by members of the staff. A petition from 14 residents of Colville Road asking for a street light on that street on the portion between Fleming and Phoenix Streets, was referred to the fire and lights committee.

Zeballos Growing Up

Improvements at the West Coast mining town of Zeballos are going ahead as the result of the recent visit there of Premier Pattullo.

The government has purchased a fire hose and pump to give fire protection to the town. Work has also been ordered on the main road in the centre of the townsite itself.

A government engineer will shortly visit Zeballos to study the means of putting in a water supply, one of the acute problems of the town.

Movements for a school and hospital are also under way and will receive government help, the Premier said today.

Wisner's Naming Contest to Close

A contest announced by Attorney-General Wismer for a suitable name for the government's new youth rehabilitation scheme in connection with Oakalla prison will close August 13, he said this morning. Mr. Wismer said many suggestions had already been sent in by the public of titles for the institution which is located in Burnaby.

There are hot mineral springs near the Polar Circle, about 194 degrees Fahrenheit.

More Muffs To Be Worn, Says Paris

PARIS (AP)—Parisian fashion designers displayed more muffs in their annual winter style showings today than they have brought out in any season for the last ten years.

There were lots of new twists to the muffs. For evening they are made of green marabou or light blue tulle silk. Day muffs were of velvet and chinchilla. Lanvin's black satin evening suits had jackets and muffs made of thick satin cords as large as garden hose. Coat sleeves carried muffs off.

BRIDE IN TULLE

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was in sheerest ivory tulle, with very bouffant skirt. Short puffed sleeves were wide and full in the V-necked bodice, and the gown was founded on matching taffeta. The heirloom bridal veil, which had been worn by both the groom's mother and his grandmother, cascaded in gossamer folds of fine hand-embroidered net from a simple Juliet cap wreathed delicately in a single band of orange blossoms.

Her only ornament was a string of pearls which had been sent to her from England as a wedding gift from the groom's sister, Mrs. Michel Cherniavsky. Her flowers were a massed bouquet of lily of the valley.

ATTENDANTS IN BLUE

A trio of attendants in forget-me-not blue preceded the bride to the flower-decked altar.

Mrs. Phillip Rogers was her sister's matron of honor, and Miss Mary Rogers and Miss Mary Coverton were her bridesmaids. Their blue frocks of embroidered organdy, over deeper blue taffeta, were fashioned with bouffant skirts, the fitted bodices featuring square necklines and widely puffed sleeves. Deeper blue velvet was utilized in sashes and in the streamers which fell from the banded white leghorn hats. Their bouquets were simple clusters of yellow marguerites tied with blue velvet.

Mrs. Thomas, the bride's mother, had chosen a two-toned crepe ensemble in oyster beige and black. Her wide black hat was straw and her corsage was a cluster of orchids. Mrs. Rogers, the groom's mother, wore grey in a three-piece ensemble, the shoulders in a short cape mode. Her hat was en suite.

Mr. William Cameron supported the groom, and the ushers were Mr. George Milburn, Mr. John Calland and Mr. Ralph Farrie.

Miss Gwyneth Thomas Married To Mr. Forrest Rogers

A former Victoria girl was the bride at one of the smartest weddings of the season when Gwyneth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Thomas of Vancouver, formerly of Victoria, became the bride of Mr. Forrest Rogers, youngest son of Mrs. B. T. Rogers of Vancouver on Saturday afternoon in the mainland city.

St. Paul's Church was the setting for the ceremony, at which Canon Harold King officiated, assisted by Archbishop de Pencler. The service was fully choral. White lilies, gladioli and roses were massed against the chancel screen, interspersed with delphinium which reflected the color note of the graceful gowns of the three attendants.

Notables Are a Commonplace At Banff

Crossing-sweeper Sees Many "Toffs" During the Season

By ELLEN MACKIE

BANFF—There is a little English crossing-sweeper in the town of Banff who has talked to more celebrities than any other two people in the place. Names that make news are so frequent in the Rockies, that most of the natives have ceased to be impressed by big shots. Not so Tim the crossing-sweeper, who still retains a London cockney's veneration for the "toffs."

He can always spot them from his vantage point at the crossing, this comic little figure plying his broom in neat white government coat, his peaked cap set jauntily upon a shock of sorrel hair, now turning grey, a fat cigar protruding from between his flaming sideburns.

"Good morning, mam," Tim greets the tourist, politely doffing his cap, "yes, mam, it's a beautiful place." Lots of notables comes 'ere, I've seen 'em all. They come to play kail—'or to fish mebbe. Lots of bloomin' millionaires—'ere Tim's blue eyes grow a trifle pensive, "now if I was one of these 'ere millionaires—"

"Well?" asks the curious visitor, "what would you do with all that money?"

"What would I do with it? Why mam, I'd buy a longer 'andle for me broom."

Tim hasn't yet acquired a longer 'andle for his broom, but he will still tell you the scenery is "a little bit of orl right," and there are plenty of "nowtables" who agree with him.

FAMOUS GOLFERS

Take Gene Sarazen, the famous golf "pro." The first time he turned up on the links at Banff Springs, he toted a camera along. That morning he took almost as many shots at the ball as he did at the scenery, which was quite a few more shots than Sarazen was wont to do his 18 holes in. Afterwards, contemplating his off-the-record score, Sarazen remarked with rueful grin—

"Now that I've taken in the scenery, tomorrow I'm going to play golf."

The breath-taking setting of the links has put more than one top-notch player off his game, or "hers" as was the case with Joyce Wethered, former fastest player in the world. According to the Irish lad who caddied for her, Miss Wethered was so taken up "gawping" at the scenery, she couldn't keep her eye on the ball.

You are bound to be bowled over at your first eye-fel of Banff whether you are swinging a golf club—smashing a tennis ball over the net, scaling a mountain—'or merely jog-trotting over one of the spider-web trails. Perhaps this spellbinding is the reason so many famous personalities can browse around the mountains unnoticed and unrecognized.

LOSE THEIR IDENTITY

Sir Hubert Wilkins sat day after day contemplating what the Indians call the "glittering mountains," yet no one guessed he was the famous explorer. Catherine Cornell, who likes to get back to nature in togs antiquated and comfortable—did a spot of hiking around these parts practically incognito. The dramatic profile of John Barrymore silhouetted against a mountain crag at Lake Louise, caused but little sensation.

Almost any pair of smoked glasses you meet along the trail might be tagged with a famous name. Screen stars who panic Broadway, hie them to these mountains to get away from it all. How well they succeed.

Banff, the enchantress steals the show.

She is a gipsy, in green fringed skirt, flaunting two ribbon-rippers as a sash around her waist. She is a glittering Empress—her coronet of snow-crested peaks rivaling the world's crown jewels—her bodyguard, a troop of "mounties" on horses of polished ebony. What wonder that mere worldly fame pales before her dazzling splendor?

MINK SUCCESSFUL
BRETON COVE, N.S.—John McInnis believes this must be good mink-raising country. The pioneer mink rancher of Victoria County purchased a male and three females. Twenty-five kittens were born and all of them lived. It was believed to be a record.

World President Of W.C.T.U. at Coast

VANCOUVER—"Have the courage of your convictions, and be strong enough to not only abstain from drinking 'hard' liquor, but to encourage abstinence among your family and friends," Mrs. Ella Boole of Brooklyn, N.Y., said to the local Women's Christian Temperance Union at a luncheon arranged in her honor at Stanley Park Pavilion, Saturday.

Mrs. Boole is the world president of the W.C.T.U., and was in Vancouver en route to San Francisco to the U.S. National Convention.

A strong sense of humor marked her whole address, which lacked any of the narrow, petty feeling which might so easily have predominated an address dealing with the virtues of teetotalism.

"All women should unite against the liquor traffic, and so by complete co-operation of the world-wide groups, the W.C.T.U. could fulfill its aims."

In Austria, where now Germany frowns on all women's organizations, the W.C.T.U., or "Deutsche Frauenbund," has received strong encouragement, Mrs. Boole told her audience.

At the Washington Conference Mrs. Boole was approached by the Japanese delegate, who had been questioned on why the Japanese government had paid her expenses, and who answered that her government wanted to know what the women of America thought of Japan. Mrs. Boole replied that American women regard the Japanese government as murderers and all sympathy is with the Chinese.

FIND ITALIANS NOT "PURE-BREDS"

Professors "Aryan" Declaration Held at Variance With Anthropological Knowledge

WASHINGTON—New Fascist anti-Semitic policies are not in harmony with current anthropological knowledge because of the mixed origins of the Italian people. Italians, it has been found, do not belong to any single race, but predominantly they present a picture quite different from the blue-eyed blonds that are the "Nordic" ideal.

Anthropologists outside Germany and Italy have scant sympathy for the pronouncement of the anonymous professor that the people of Italy are pure "Aryan" and the political interpretation that they should be protected from mixing with the Jews.

The word "Aryan" refers not to a single race but to a group of peoples linked by speaking languages belonging to the same Indo-European family, and not through any tie of physical heritage.

A German scholar of the past century, Max Muller, introduced the fallacy of the "Aryan race," but he himself realized the enormity of the error for which he was responsible and did his best to wipe it out. In 1888 he wrote: "Aryans are those who speak Aryan languages, whatever their color, whatever their blood. In calling them Aryans we predicate nothing to them except that the grammar of their language is Aryan.... I have declared again and again that if I say Aryan, I mean neither blood nor bones, nor hair, nor skull; I mean simply those who speak an Aryan language.... To me an ethnologist who speaks of Aryan race, Aryan blood, Aryan eyes and hair, is as great a sinner as a linguist who speaks of a dolichocephalic dictionary or a brachycephalic grammar."

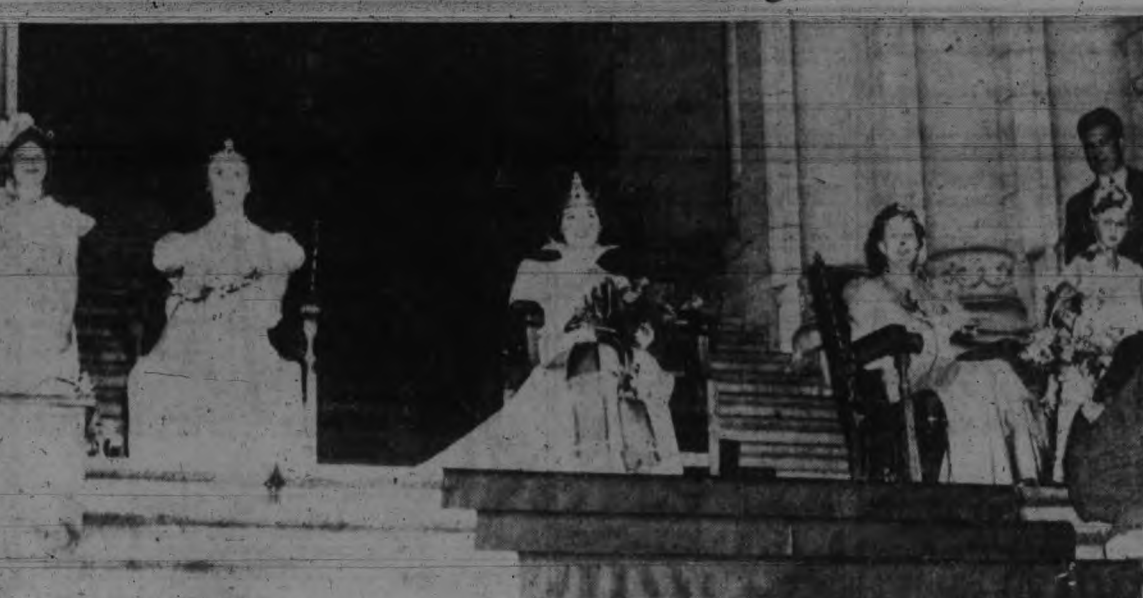

The Italians are a mixed people, it is held by such authorities as Dr. A. C. Haddon of the University of Cambridge and Dr. Julian S. Huxley, British scientist. Their origin can be traced for the most part to the Mediterranean people, of which the Semites are one language group. These Mediterranean are a dark people, sometimes called the "Brown Race." Such blonds as are in Italy are probably Alpine rather than Nordic, anthropologists believe.

The Jews from which the "Aryans" would now like to be distinguished are also a mixed people, Dr. Haddon says. Probably the Hebrews were originally Semites, but many another branch has been added during the ages to their family tree.

The most outstanding feature of Jewish physiognomy, the nose, or "schnozzle," is Armenian in origin. Prof. W. M. Krogman of Western Reserve University has found, and the gods and rulers of the ancient Hittites had just such "Jewish" noses, and Hittite has recently been found to be an Aryan language.

SAYS CANADA REPELS MONEY

British Capital Waiting Till Dominion's House in Order, Says Bank Head

Canada stands higher in the minds of the British people than any other dominion, but British capital is waiting patiently for Canada to set its house in order before investing in the country. G. H. Stevens, local manager of the Royal Bank, told the Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a luncheon yesterday.

Mr. Stevens, a member of the board, returned recently from a visit to Britain and the continent.

People in the Old Country, he said, were keenly interested in Canada and some believed the future of the British Empire was largely vested in it, but they considered the Dominion's financial and political situation was nothing but a mess.

They quoted especially the railway problem, the tendency to freak political and financial views and a general lack of co-operation inside the country, he said.

But they believed the problem would solve itself in time and they were willing to wait. When Canada's house was in order there would be an unlimited flow of British capital to the Dominion.

He did not think Britain as a whole was concerned with the possibility of an immediate European war. The opinion was that the dictatorships might wish to start outside trouble to divert the minds of their people from their own worries, but that they were not in an economic position to carry on a prolonged full-scale war.

Not Interested In Film Career

LADY SWINFEN

By MILTON BRONNER

LONDON—Imagine the surprise of a movie talent scout who picks out three young women as excellent screen types—and then discovers that they are no more interested in going to Hollywood than to the North Pole!

That is what happened to Cecil Clovelly of New York, discoverer of many of the lovely ladies of the American films, when he served as "judge of beauty" at

LADY FRASER

London's swank Polo Ball recently.

It was Clovelly's hard luck to select, out of several hundred dancers, three women whose social ranking in glamorous Mayfair is so high that it would take more than the prospects of a cinema career to dazzle them.

They are Lady Fraser, wife of the sixth Baronet, wealthy young Sir Keith Fraser; Lady Swinfen, wife of Lord Swinfen, prominent London lawyer, and Miss Diana Barnato, daughter of the famous

Airy Desserts Give Wings To Summer Appetites

Try serving delicate desserts to heat-battered appetites. Orange pudding like this should give any palate a lift, regardless of what

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

WHEN the heat settles down on the appetite, lift its spirit with a delicate dessert. On these early days of summer, let's learn a few airy recipes.

A warm dessert makes possible a simple dinner of cold meats, salad and rolls. Always remember that dessert is part of the dinner in the calculation of food values. Not something extra.

Citrus Fluff

(Serves 4 to 6)

Two-thirds cup sugar, 1/2 cup butter, 2 eggs well beaten, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 1/2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon almond extract.

For topping: Half cup sugar, 1 tablespoon butter and 2 tablespoons mixed, grated lemon and orange rind.

Cream butter and sugar together, then stir in well-beaten eggs. Sift flour once, then measure. Add dry ingredients and sift all together three times. Add to butter and sugar alternately with milk. Then beat one minute. Turn into buttered baking pan.

For topping, mix together the sugar, butter and grated rind. Spread this mixture over the batter. Bake in slow oven (300 degrees F.) about 30 minutes.

RASPBERRY DELIGHT

(Serves 6)

Four egg whites, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 cup fine granulated sugar, 1 teaspoon water, 1 teaspoon vinegar, 1 teaspoon vanilla extract, 1 quart large fresh raspberries, 1 cup whipping cream sweetened.

Beat egg whites until frothy. Add salt and cream of tartar and beat until stiff. Gradually beat in sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, alternately with water, vinegar and vanilla which have been mixed together. Beat until the mixture is fluffy and of good piling quality.

Spread in a greased 9-inch glass pie plate. With a spoon form a rim around the edge to hold the berries at serving time. Bake in a very slow oven (275 degrees F.) until delicately browned and dry on the surface. Pile sweetened raspberries and whipped cream in the centre. Serve immediately.

FIRE LOSSES

HALIFAX—A total loss of $367,495 was caused by 448 fires in Nova Scotia the first quarter of 1938, according to the report issued by the Nova Scotia Fire Marshal's Department, compared with 484 fires and $338,468 damage during the same period of last year.

INFESTATION LIGHTER

FREDERICTON—New Brunswick's annual infestation of tent caterpillars was considerably lighter this year than last, said an entomologist here. They started earlier and finished earlier than in previous years.

Guests were photographed by a society photographer and from these photographs and from the crowd on the ballroom floor, Clovelly made his selections. He chose the winners "for their beauty and for their personality" as expressed in their faces.

THOUSANDS CHEER "MISS VICTORIA"

A bouquet of red roses, presented to her by Premier Pattullo, she carried in her arms.

Miss McGregor was in dusty peach-pink crepe and Miss Wilson in turquoise mousselin de soie. Both carried colonial bouquets and sweet peas and roses.

Corinne Moore wore turquoise blue taffeta, with a dusty pink velvet sash, and in her hair a bandeau of sweet peas. Eatsy Sparks and Lorraine Stocker wore pantalette frocks of yellow and plane green, respectively, and on their heads were flat little Victoria posy-hats, trimmed with flowers. Norma Dunn and Jacqueline le Huquet were in purple velvet and cream satin costumes, with plumed velvet hats.

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Crowds of people commenced to arrive at Parliament Square an hour before the program was scheduled to start. By 8 there were thousands on the lawns. Frank J. Sehl was master-of-ceremonies. Until 8.45, when "Miss Victoria" and her suite arrived in regal state in a fleet of big shining limousines, the crowd was kept entertained by selections from the 16th Canadian Scottish Band and the Imperial Male Quartette. Two or three times the populace burst into song, particularly liking "It's Off to Work We Go."

The scene was one of fairy-like brilliance. The western sky was flame-colored and an airplane flew over the Sooke Hills. The hundreds of lights on the Parliament Buildings and the Empress Hotel twinkled, their only competition coming from the stars in the darkening sky. Ships' lights gleamed over the waters of the Inner Harbor. Colored lights stretched across the Causeway. Fountains shot their spray high into the air. A half moon hung yellow over the bronze-green dome of the Buildings.

Late afternoon, which was so threatening and windy, turned into one of the most perfect evenings of the summer and the crowning of "Miss Victoria" went down into local history as one of the most delightful, beautiful and entertaining functions of its kind ever held in the city. Too much credit cannot be given members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and all others who helped make the function the success it was.

CORONATION BALL

Equally as colorful an event as the coronation ceremony, was the picturesque Coronation March at the Coronation Ball in the Empress Hotel later in the evening, with Norman Foster's smart, red-white-and-blue uniformed Junior Chamber girls' drill team acting as guard of honor.

The Junior Chamber committee had only a few days to arrange the procession. It was fearlessly staged. It had the pomp and grace that accompanies a well-rehearsed royal procession and greatly impressed the dancers who lined the walls to see it.

The march started at 10.30 when the ballroom was plunged into darkness and the spotlight picked out six-year-old Master Raymond Ralph, mascot, who, to the impressive strains of the "Coronation Waltz," played by William Tickle's orchestra, led the procession to the royal dais, situated at the northeast end of the ballroom and around which were draperies of purple and gold.

Master Ralph was followed by Miss Doreen McGregor and a flower girl between four smart-stepping guardsmen. Then came Miss Wilson and a flower girl, also flanked by four guards of honor, followed by Miss Moore bearing the crown on a gold-braided cushion and directly behind her four guardsmen came "Miss Victoria" and her train bearers. Three guardsmen were in the rear of the procession.

Resplendent in costumes of white-flared satin skirts, navy blue capes with crimson satin linings, helmets, high white leggings, white gauntlet gloves and carrying silver batons, the 15 girls on the drill team lined up behind the two rows of dignitaries on either side of the dais.

Ernest Harris, president of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, introduced by Mr. Sehl, presented the three winners of the "Miss Victoria" contest with their prizes, and special awards to the other three contestants, Miss Phyllis Addison, Miss Eleanore Moffat and Miss Jean Bishop, as tokens of esteem from the Junior Chamber.

The Junior Chamber drill team was composed of the following: Misses Doreen Anderson, Jean Munro, Flossie Hughes, Beryl Fleming, Ruby Foyer, Doreen

colored halter and Chinese coolie hats, they gave high-stepping chorus dances and sang bright, tuneful songs. On the program they were billed "as beautiful as a song, as seductive as a siren, as passionate as a lily."

"Tug" Wilson's fine voice was heard in several numbers.

"Tubby" Wassall was another who sang several songs.

The Royal Marine band of the York gave two overtures; Reginald Smith and his Harmonica Rascais, attired in white trousers and blue shirts were heard in popular musical selections.

Others started were Wat Anderson and Larry Pattett, with Jack Fisher at the piano.

Also billed were "Bore Helisha," "Gin and Ginger," Robinson, Crusoe and Friday and Lord Vere de Vere.

During the intermission T. L. Thorpe Double thanked the men of the York, on behalf of the audience, for their fine entertainment.

At the close of the performance the members of the Navy League Chapter, I.O.D.E., served refreshments to members of the cast and orchestra, and will do the same again after tonight's show.

Favors Bigger Canadian Navy

Premier, at Navy Week Luncheon, Advocates Increase in Service

The hope that the federal government would find it incumbent upon it to increase the naval forces of Canada was voiced by Premier T. D. Pattullo in a short address at the Navy Week luncheon tendered to officers of H.M.S. York and members of the Canadian Navy at the Empress Hotel by the city yesterday.

The Premier noted that young men of Canada were roaming around in the impressions of a subversive nature. He thought the discipline provided by the services would be of benefit both to them and to the country.

Governments, he said, were spending millions on direct relief, which provided a subsistence level only. It would make no material difference in the costs to the governments to build up disciplined army and navy forces, he believed.

The Premier joined Mayor Andrew McGavin in extending greetings to the visiting ship and stated the well wishers were not from the coast alone, but from the interior of the province, which also had a vital interest in the sojourn here of the representatives of the Imperial Navy.

In a short introduction to the speakers Mayor Andrew McGavin expressed the belief that all attending the function were aware of the possible fate which hung over the Canadian cities of the Pacific Coast. The navy and the airforce, he said, were the units to which this section would have to turn for protection in the event of hostilities.

He extolled the merits of Vice-Admiral Sir Sidney Julius Meyrick, commander-in-chief of the America and West Indies station, and Premier Pattullo as public speakers and extended the wholehearted greetings of the city to the visiting ship's complement.

The mayor also acknowledged the assistance given to the city by Oak Bay and the provincial government in holding the naval luncheon.

Calling himself the spokesman of "the silent service," Sir Sidney voiced the appreciation of the officers and men for the hospitality they had received in Victoria. The ship, he said, had been looking forward for months to its visit to this city.

In Victoria, with its keen appreciation of the importance of the force, it was unnecessary to go to lengths to explain what a strong imperial navy meant. He characterized the different units of the imperial navy throughout the world as links in "that strong chain that binds the Empire together."

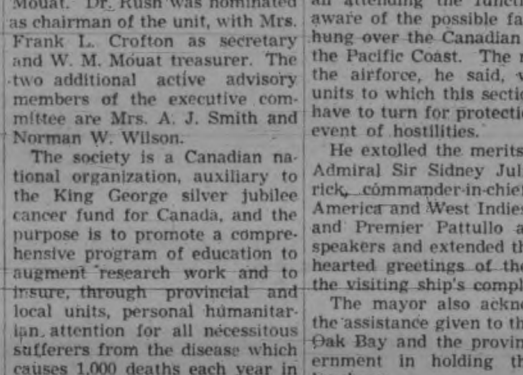

Cancer Unit At Salt Spring

GANGES HARBOR—On Saturday evening a meeting was held at the home of Dr. R. D. Rush, Ganges Harbor, for the purpose of forming a unit of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer, B.C. branch. Dr. Rush was in the chair, reading the aims and objects of the society.

Elected to the district council were Dr. R. D. Rush and W. M. Mouat. Dr. Rush was nominated as chairman of the unit, with Mrs. Frank L. Crofton as secretary and W. M. Mouat treasurer. The two additional active advisory members of the executive committee are Mrs. A. J. Smith and Norman W. Wilson.

The society is a Canadian national organization, auxiliary to the King George silver jubilee cancer fund for Canada, and the purpose is to promote a comprehensive program of education to augment research work and to insure, through provincial and local units, personal humanitarian attention for all necessitous sufferers from the disease which causes 1,000 deaths each year in British Columbia.

The Last of Forbes Landing Hotel

Charred wreckage is all that is left of the well-known hotel at Forbes Landing, destroyed in the forest fire in the Campbell River area. The top picture shows the smouldering embers and below are twisted bedsteads from the guest house. The pictures were taken last week by Walter Laing of 1704 Hollywood Crescent.

WORLD PEACE FACTOR

A strong British navy was possibly the biggest factor in world peace, he added.

He spoke of the Navy Week celebrations in the Old Country, noting they served a valuable purpose in reminding Englishmen of the deeds the imperial navy had accomplished in the past and what it could do in the future.

Closing, he thanked the people of Victoria for their hospitality, stating that the ship would leave the city with the kindest memories of the treatment accorded officers and men in this port.

NO EARLY ELECTION

EDMUNDSTON, N.B. (CP).—No provincial general election will be held in New Brunswick this year, Premier Dymally said here last night at a banquet in honor of Hon. P. H. Laporte, recently appointed Minister of Health and Labor.

Edwards Lone Canuck Threat

Sports Mirror

WHEN Nate Druxman put on the recent world middle-weight championship fight, between Al Hostak and Freddie Steele at Seattle it was really a celebration for his 25th year as a promoter in the Sound City. Druxman, the Tex Rickard of the Pacific Northwest, drew $500 in his first attempt at matching nose knockers a quarter of a century ago.

The fight also marked Druxman's high in gates, when $90,000 was turned in at the wickets. Nate's previous high gate was $68,000. Steele and Eddie Risko enticed that through the turnstiles in July, 1936, when the Tacoma belter took over the throne room. Druxman had drawn numerous $15,000 and $20,000 houses in late years, usually with Steele the main attraction. He has made Seattle the west's foremost pugilistic centre, putting it ahead of Los Angeles and San Francisco in that respect.

Now that he has realized a gate close to the $100,000 mark, Druxman's ambition is to find a heavyweight in the Pacific Northwest and send him against Joe Louis, or whoever the champion happens to be, in the Sound City. He wants to bring such a youngster along, build him into position just as he did with Steele and Hostak in the middleweight ranks.

"What we have done in Seattle with lighter men we can do with the heavies," says Druxman, who is in his early forties for all his experience. Druxman made a financial success of what originally was an avocation. He has yet to close a season without a good profit.

Consequently, when Druxman talks with big-time managers they listen. Up until he had met Hostak, Druxman had presented Steele in three title fights, against Risko, Frank Battaglia and Ken Overlin. He twice had Freddie Miller in the ring with the Cincinnati southpaw's feather crown on the block.

Jack Dempsey, who refereed the Steele-Hostak affair, grossed $18,000 in a Seattle exhibition promoted by Druxman, who has staged shows starring Jack Britton, Tod Morgan, Jack Malone, Leo Lomski, Midget Wolgast, Vince Dundee, Billy Petrolle and Barney Ross. Twenty of Druxman's 25 years' promotion were under official tolerance. The dodge was illegal in Washington, but Nate kept the game clean and was allowed to keep operating.

Druxman began his promoting when he joined the Seattle Elks in 1913. He had just turned 21. The lodge named him on a committee to promote boxing. Druxman also had a bright future in baseball. He was sought by Pacific Coast League clubs of two decades ago, but his parents and friends advised him against an athletic career.

A promoter's word turned Druxman from the trail of fighting. When youth rode on his side, he aspired to leather throwing. He met George McKinnon, a featherweight, and fought four rounds. He went to collect his $10. In those days the winner got $10, the loser $5. The promoter handed Druxman $250. Today he will tell you that he owes the old-time promoter his thanks. The latter changed his mind about fighting and taught him the importance of keeping his word.

Victorian in Semis of P.N.W. Tennis Along With Three U.S. Stars

Three invading stars from across the border, Henry (Hank) Prusoff and Mel Dranga, both of Seattle, and Eddie Neale, Portland, and Commander J. C. I. Edwards, Victoria, gained the semifinals of the Pacific Northwest sectionals tennis singles as play opened yesterday on the courts of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club. In addition 24 matches were run off in the men's singles of the British Columbia championships.

Women-competitors had a day on the sidelines yesterday, but moved into action today. The sectionals, singles and doubles will wind up tomorrow, with the provincial championships concluding on Saturday.

EDWARDS BEATEN
In one of the feature matches in the B.C. singles, youthful P. Blugard, Seattle, eliminated Edwards after a three-set battle, 7-5, 4-6, 7-5. In the deciding set Edwards came from behind to deadlock the score at five games apiece, and then had five misfortune to suffer a cramp in his left leg and Blugard ran off with the next two games and the match.

Players yesterday experienced quite a bit of difficulty with a nasty crosswind, while matches in the late afternoon were held up by rain which made the courts soft and the bounces tricky. Complete results follow:

TWO BUTTON FISH CAUGHT

Bill Pomeroy and Tommy Spencer Landed 38 and 30 1/2-Pound Springs

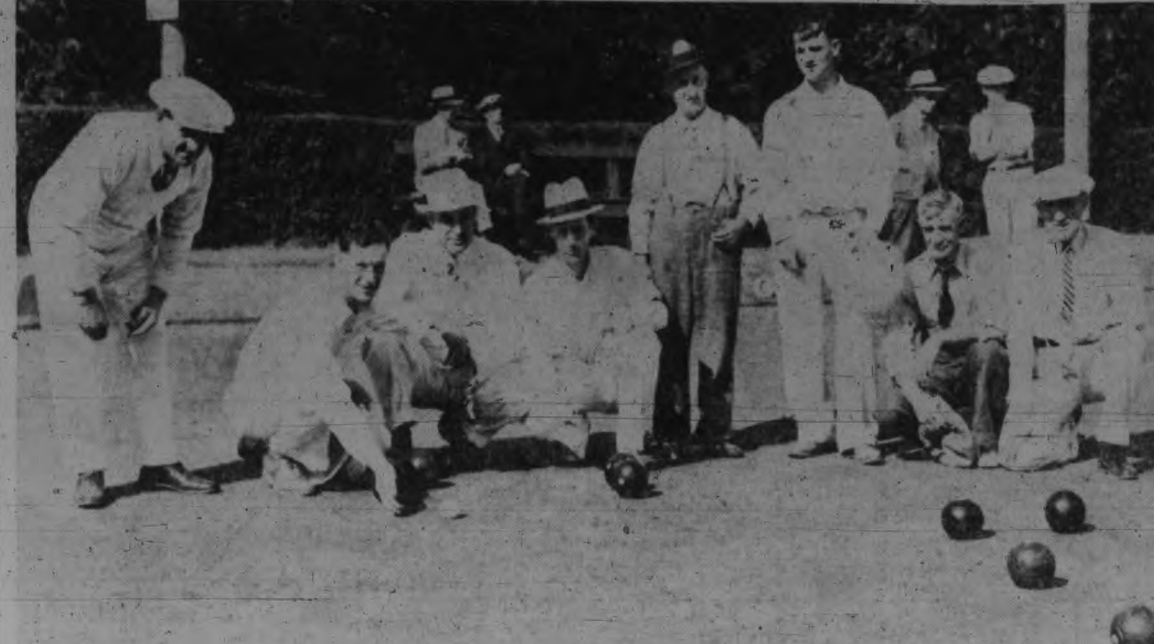

Although large fish were not general in week-end salmon catches at Brentwood there were two exceptions. These were the catches of Bill Pomeroy and Tommy Spencer which included silver button specimens.

Out Saturday afternoon, Pomeroy won a lengthy battle with a 38-pounder in the vicinity of the Boulder, while Spencer reeled in a 30 1/2-pounder Sunday in the waters around the Stone House. The 38-pounder gives Pomeroy the lead in the race for the chinook championship. Martin plugs were used.

On Friday last Hugh Creed took out a party of three from Ohio and brought back a total of eight salmon, the largest bending the indicator to 17 1/2 pounds, while Len Holyoak was one of the Sunday anglers who got a big basket of salmon. He had eight.

Hammer Out 13 to 7 Win Over Pitzer and Nex in Rithet Cup Baseball

Navy baseballers pulled a real upset last night when they came from behind to beat Pitzer and Nex, Rithet Cup leaders, 13 to 7, at the Athletic Park.

Les McLeod, Pitzer and Nex twirled, held the Navy to three hits and one run in the first four innings, but when Harry Harding came in to take over the mound duties in the fifth, the sailors blasted his slants all over the lot and at the end of the sixth had driven over a dozen runs to ice the fixture. Included in the Navy's fifth and sixth-inning attacks was a home run by McIntyre.

Campbell River Salmon Run On

The salmon run at Campbell River has definitely started, and fish ranging up to 41 pounds have already been taken, according to a letter received this morning by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau from the tourist bureau of the Courtenay-Cornox Board of Trade. The letter adds that the Island Highway is clear and safe all the way to Campbell River and Menzies Bay.

Local and Invading Players Show Form in Annual Greater Victoria Tourney

All day yesterday and into the night, under the floodlights a record entry of bowlers from scattered parts of the Pacific Coast and as far east as Edmonton, opened their bids for honors in the eleventh annual Victoria lawn bowling tournament on the greens of a quartette of local clubs.

Expected to produce the keenest competition ever experienced in local tournament play, this meet has attracted 304 entries. For both men and women, yesterday was taken up with the rinks competition, and men's singles matches were played in the evening.

In the men's rinks competition there are five sections. Four games were played by each team. Although some of the imposing players among the visitors received setbacks in yesterday's competitions it was not surprising as it takes at least a day to get accustomed to strange greens. However, there are three more games to be played by each team, which gives the defeated a chance to make a comeback.

Vancouver Burrards occupy the second position, four points behind, with Richmond third another four points back. North Shore Indians are in the cellar with only a mathematical chance left of gaining a place in the playoffs.

Visiting Sailors Take Feature on Navy-Gala Program Here

A spirited finish by the last two members of H.M.S. York's six-man relay gave the visiting sailors a close victory over Canadian Navy representatives in the feature race on yesterday evening's naval gala program at the Crystal Garden.

Trailing most of the way, the British team went into the lead on the last length, but one and the anchor man came away with a short margin which he held despite the Canadian's challenge.

The visitors further showed their supremacy in a water polo match, scoring a 4 to 2 victory and won life-saving and clothing races.

The Canadians swept first places in the standard events, Clark taking the 50 freestyle and Denny Walker the 50 breast and 50 back.

June Stancil and Margaret Rennie, V.A.S.C., gave an enjoyable exhibition of fancy diving during the evening.

Complete Change in Teaching Required to Bring Players Along, Beasley Says

TORONTO (CP)—Maker and developer of more tennis groans than any other coach, Mervyn Beasley says Canada will not produce players of Davis Cup calibre until the system of teaching is changed.

Beasley sat on the veranda at Toronto Lawn Tennis Club today and watched his brightest protégé, Frankie Parker, advance in the Canadian tennis championships, while he discussed Canada's crushing defeat by Japan at Montreal last week. Just last winter Beasley's wife divorced him—to marry Parker, but the grizzled master of "inside" tennis says he is "as interested as ever" in 22-year-old Frankie's development.

To Beasley, Canada's best players are "real nice boys." But they don't "hit the ball to the right places."

He is a keen believer in charts. And in their failure to chart the games of their opponents lies the Canadians' main mistake, he declared. It is all very well to be able to spot a weakness in an opponent's style, but there are other angles.

"If these fellows could grasp the idea we have in the United States of charting where a man hits the ball, they'd go a lot farther," Beasley said. "Time after time the same player will hit the same sort of shot to the same place—the charts we make when we want to analyze a man's game show that."

NO VARIE
Beasley respects the ability of Bobby Murray, Canada's ranking player, but he thinks Murray fails to alter his game to meet his opponent.

"I've had lots of opportunity to study Murray's play in the Bermuda tournaments," he said. "He plays the same kind of game no matter whom he's meeting—he can't seem to get the idea that a

Hank Greenberg, Detroit first baseman, today was well on his way in a determined bid to smash Babe Ruth's all-time record of 60 home runs in one season.

Greenberg, 27-year-old Jewish boy from New York, has scored, 37 home runs in 92 games, more home runs than any major league ball player has ever hit so early in the season.

Ruth, when he established his record in 1927, had batted out 37 home runs in 113 games, by August 16, but the serious-minded slugger Greenberg has not forgotten the finish Ruth staged to establish the record—17 homers in one month.

While Greenberg's homers keep left-field bleacher patrons busy dodging, New York Giants are mourning their lost opportunity. A great Jewish baseball player, especially a hitter, is worth money at the New York box office, and the Giants refused even to give Greenberg a trial when Greenberg's father begged them to watch Hank perform, around 1930.

CLEVELAND ON SPOT

Since early this season, one of the big questions, if not the biggest, concerning the American League race had to do with the staying qualities of Cleveland Indians, the team that always had cracked up before.

"Would the Indians have it in the clutch?" the fans asked. So far Oscar Vitt and his men have picked up their fair share of the chips, but there's another of those important occasions known as "the clutch" at hand.

The Indians, now 2 1/2 games behind the league-leading New York Yankees as a result of yesterday's 10-inning, 11 to 9 defeat by Washington, face their toughest rivals in the next seven games in their home park. The third-place Boston Red Sox, who trail the tribe by only three ships last night he was "all in."

The diminutive Vancouver left hander said he was "sick and tired of hanging around tennis clubs, thinking and eating tennis and feeling hemmed-in all the time."

And Cameron looked the part as he struggled to a 10-8, 5-7, 6-4 victory over an unseeded player, Ben Villeneuve of Ottawa. His errors nearly cost him the match in the first and third sets.

"I'll be glad to get back to work in Vancouver after this tournament," he said. "The experience was nice, but it gets you after a while."

DAVIS CUPPERS ADVANCE

The other three members of the cup team had a comparatively easy day, as the tournament began; all drew first-round defaults and won straight-set victories in the second stage. Bobby Murray of Montreal, the country's No. 1 player, defeated M. Saffer of Toronto 6-1, 6-2; Lévy Watt of Montreal eliminated R. Talby of Kitchener, 6-4, 6-2; and Ross Wilson of Toronto beat J. Abbott of Owen Sound, 6-1, 6-2.

The championships gained pace today with the third round of men's singles and the arrival of Wilmer Allison, Texan star who loomed large in United States ranks until the last couple of years. Allison will team in men's doubles, as well as stepping into the third round of singles.

Two tall stylists turned in the feature match, with a display of long hitting and pretty strategy. There was scarcely a shot at the net as Vladimir Havlicek, who came to Toronto from Czechoslovakia three months ago, outlasted Gilbert Nunn of Toronto, five times a Davis Cup player, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

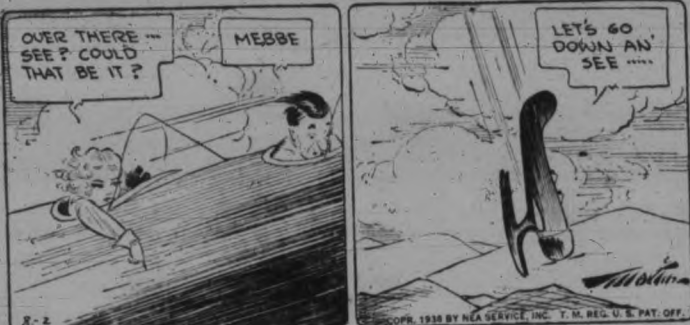

Parker got easily by J. Alan Ross of Toronto 6-1, 6-1, then gave his autographed racquet to Ross.

WELL-MEANT MEDDLING IS A TRIAL that it takes the grace of God to endure, but few of us escape. We all have relatives and friends who are always urging us to give up our own doctors and go to theirs; who think we should move out of the neighborhood we are in to some other; who arrange our furniture a different way, feed our children the way they feed theirs, manage our husbands or wives according to their recipe, etc., etc. If you live in a family you are told when to go to bed, what to eat, whether or not you should go out to the movies, and you are helpless to resent the interference in all your plans because you know it is being done for your own good.

So there you are, Mrs. K. L., and you are in no worse fix than millions of other women who have mothers and mothers-in-law, sisters, cousins and aunts; and inasmuch as your mother-in-law only descends upon you every once in a while the wise thing to do would be to let her have her orgy of cooking and cleaning in peace. When she is gone you can move back the furniture, give the children a dose of castor oil and resume the even tenor of your ways.

Having a sense of humor, as you evidently have, you can reflect that some 20 years hence you can be-compensated by having your turn in trying to make your daughter-in-law cook your way and bring up her children according to your theories.

We all do it. Age seems to bring an egotism that none of us escapes that makes us feel that we are the people and wisdom will perish with us, and that our ways of doing things are the only right ways.

You will have another compensation for dealing patiently with your mother-in-law in the enhanced affection of your husband. There is nothing on earth for which a man is so grateful to his wife as for getting along with his mother.

But doesn't your problem show how impossible it is for two women to get along in peace in the same house? For both are determined to run it and their ideas about it are as far apart as the poles, or say a spinach diet and one of pie a la mode, or whether you should rock a baby to sleep or put it to bed by its lonesome.

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 3, 1938
Threatening aspects contend with benefic influences today, according to astrology. Uncertainty and even apprehension may be harbored by leaders in government and industry.

Despite the adverse aspects in the horoscope there are signs of good luck. Encouraging news from Europe may be expected as new pacts operate for closer bonds of international understanding.

As Mars in Leo rules the month ambition may cause hostile gestures in Europe. The spirit of conquest will be aflame in Asia where the horoscope of the Emperor of Japan warns of destruction to shipping with heavy damage in October and November from earthquakes and storms.

Evil omens are discerned for Russia where there may be conflict with a foreign power and surprising changes in governmental policies.

Girls will have many opportunities to marry before the end of this year which will record an extraordinary number of marriages and an increased birthrate.

Persons whose birthdate it have the augury of a year of surprises. Great changes may be expected. Losses of money are probable among business men.

Children born on this day probably will be forceful as well as talented. The subjects of this sign usually have imagination and determination.

SELF-INTEREST leads to Sales

It has become a well established habit for the business man and the investor to open his Daily Newspaper at the financial page to scan the latest news—local, national, international—with an eye as to their effect on his business and his investments.

Such intense self-interest explains the high sales value of the financial pages for the sale of products and services that are logically purchased by business men and investors.

VICTORIA GIRL SINGS ON BBC

Enid Middleton-Heard Over Radio From London After Winning Contest

A little Victoria girl, 11-year-old Enid Middleton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Middleton of 545 Beta Street, sang over the British Broadcasting Corporation from London on Saturday. The broadcast was heard here by short wave.

In a letter to her sister, Bessie Middleton, Enid said she had been chosen from among the semi-finalists of a weekly contest to sing on Madame Pauline's program.

Enid is in Britain at present with her mother. They left Victoria earlier this summer and visited the Empire Exhibition in Glasgow before going to London a few weeks ago. They will return to Victoria around the middle of next month.

Young Enid is well known in Victoria for her singing on the Show Boat and over the radio. She was singled out by the adjudicator of the vocal classes at this year's Musical Festival for special mention.

Tells Value Of Co-operatives

Directors of Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society Visitors in Victoria

"Naturally we are most anxious to see the establishment of a co-operative movement in Canada, for we believe it would be beneficial to the common people," said J. M. Davidson, director of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, with headquarters in Glasgow, who is in Victoria today with his wife, Alex Buchanan, another director of the society, and Allan R. McPherson of Winnipeg, representative of the society in Canada.

"We see the germs of a good co-operative movement particularly in British Columbia," Mr. Davidson said. "In Nova Scotia, of course, co-operatives are well established, but in British Columbia there are greater possibilities than in any other province. There are consumers' organizations, weak it is true, but nevertheless they are here."

Many people thought a co-operative society was something of which to be suspicious, Mr. Davidson said. It was purely an economic movement and had nothing to do with politics.

"Education is what is needed more than anything else to establish co-operatives," Mr. Davidson said. "And a good, honest group of people to run things is also needed."

HUGE MEMBERSHIP

In Scotland the co-operative societies have 900,000 members. It is figured each member supports four people, so that means 3,600,000 people are interested in the co-operatives. Each member must hold a five-pound share, but it is necessary to pay only 15 pence down. The rest is paid by the dividends. The total amount of the co-operative business in Scotland is $190,000,000 a year. The share capital of all the societies amounts to $77,000,000 in accumulated money.

The co-operative stores must compete with other businesses, Mr. Davidson said, or they would lose trade. Their prices are no lower, but there are dividends for the consumers. Instead of the surplus going into a big corporation or a closed company it is shared among its members, according to the amount they purchase during the year.

The Scottish Society purchase approximately $500,000 in goods from Canada each year and it is to inspect their grain elevators on the prairies and see the Canadian exporters that Mr. Buchanan and Mr. Davidson have come to Canada. From here they will leave tomorrow for Seattle, go to Kansas, where they have oil fields and then travel to Montreal to sail for Scotland at the end of the month.

Co-operatives were first established in Scotland as early as 1790 and have been growing ever since. The first British Society, which included England and Scotland, was established in 1884.

CAPTURED AFTER FIGHT

EUREKA, Calif. (AP)—A pistol fight with state and city officers in Eureka's main streets ended with the capture of Everett Gilbert Parman, 28, of Roseville, Calif., hunted since July 16 on a murder charge as a result of the slaying of George McElroy, 20, Placer Junior College athlete.

State highway patrolmen, testing automobiles for defective headlights, chanced on Parman last night.

Erection of stop signs on Bay Street at the Shebourne intersection is sought by Harold F. Gent in a letter received today at the City Hall.

Information on living conditions in Victoria is sought by C. Keity, Dorset, England, a prospective settler here, in a letter received today by the city clerk.

Hon. W. J. Asselstine, Minister of Mines, who has been confined to hospital in Vancouver since last Friday with bronchitis, is expected to leave hospital today and return to his office here tomorrow.

J. M. Davidson of Glasgow, a director of the Scottish Wholesale Society, will address a meeting in the Y.W.C.A. this evening at 8, under the auspices of the Victoria Co-operative Consumers' Society of 1318 Government Street. Rev. Bryce H. Wallace will be the chairman.

The Hudson's Bay cricket team for tomorrow afternoon's game at Beacon Hill Park against Victoria, follows: A. Gillespie, P. Hincks, D. Holmes, A. Macdonald, I. Macdonald, V. Moore, R. Holstein-Rathlou, C. Smith, J. Sparks, D. Wilby, H. Wilkinson. H. Holstein-Rathlou is a reserve.

Traffic on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway has been decidedly slack since the outbreaks of forest fires up-island. The railway company does a good deal of work in transporting lumber, and since the mills all over the island were closed down, due to fire hazards, the company has had little business along that line.

An interesting lecture was given last night by A. S. Denny of the Standard Furniture Co. to the Victoria Associated Radio Technicians in the Y.M.C.A. Basing his talk on a recent world buying tour, Mr. Denny described the many interesting and picturesque places he visited, and showed a wonderful collection of colored pictures.

Evidence of police efforts to keep city traffic moving during summer months while tourists are in town was given in the City Police Court this morning when nine motorists were each fined $2.50 for over parking. A motorist who pleaded guilty to a charge of passing a street car while passengers were being discharged was fined $15.

Restoration of the salary of Police Magistrate Henry C. Hall, K.C., is recommended in a copy of an order-in-council received today at the City Hall over the signatures of Hon. Gordon Wismer, Attorney-General, and Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance. When the magistrate was appointed the stipend was subject to the 15 per cent reduction affected on all city salaries at the time.

The parishioners of St. Mark's Church, Victoria, are busy enlarging their parish hall. The plans call for the erection of a large stage to be added to the east end of the hall, two commodious dressing rooms with modern conveniences and a large billiard room. When completed the parish hall will be one of the largest and best-equipped halls in the community. Practically all the work is being done by the church members, and it is expected that the hall will be ready for the fall activities.

BRAWN-HAWES TAKE TENNIS

Jack Brawn and Russ Hawes, Vancouver, advanced in the P.N.W. sectional tennis doubles at the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club today, defeating B. Page and G. Ravencroft, Seattle, in three sets, 9-7, 6-2, 6-1.

Bobby Carruthers, Coronado, Calif., top seeded in the men's singles in the British Columbia championships, played his first match today, eliminating Reg. Corfield, Victoria, in straight sets, 6-2, 4-0. Don Lewis, Portland, dropped only one game in defeating Dick Odman, Seattle, 6-0, 6-1.

Women's singles opened today with Mrs. J. C. I. Edwards and Jean Campbell advancing in early matches. The former defeated Miss A. Peden, 6-3, 6-2, while Miss Campbell accounted for Miss L. Kitchen, 6-1, 6-1.

Pays Taxes But To Wrong City

The city treasurer parted regretfully with a cheque of $170 today.

The cheque was issued to cover 1938 taxes. It came in a letter addressed to the treasurer, City Hall, and was postmarked in Victoria.

There was just one flaw. The letter should have gone to the City Hall, Vancouver.

So the treasurer sealed up the envelope and readdressed it, thinking unkindly of the careless Vancouverite who had packed the letter around in his pocket and mailed it in the wrong city.

TAX PAYMENTS UP

Payment of Current Levies in City $41,082.39 Above 1937 Period

While the volume of current city tax payments last month was considerably less than that of July last year, the city still showed an increase in the aggregate collection for the first seven months of the year amounting to $41,082.39.

At the end of June the increase in collections over last year was $99,568.15. In July of 1937 tax bills were sent out and quick replies in them caused the decided jump in collections for the month. The city enjoyed the benefit of that collection stimulant considerably earlier this year.

At July 31, 1937, current taxes collected amounted to $674,973.70, against $716,056.09 up to last Saturday evening.

In the arrears division, however, payment was better last month than during July, 1937.

For the first seven months of this year $130,720.61 has been paid in against the $137,283.32 collected during the similar period last year. The decrease in collections, with a very considerable reduction in the amount outstanding, was $6,562.71 as against $8,404.01 at the end of June. The reduction of the adverse difference between 1937 and 1938 periods indicated an encouraging collection in the arrears department this year.

Esquimalt Men Beat Visitors

Canadian Sailors Beat Men of H.M.S. York in Whaler Races

Canadian sailors proved their rowing supremacy over crews of H.M.S. York this morning in three keenly-contested whaler races in Esquimalt Harbor. Vice-Admiral Sir Sidney Meyrick, commander-in-chief of the West Indies squadron of the British navy, watched from his official barge.

In each race the seamen of the Canadian navy came first, with the York crews last.

Men over 35 years rowed in what was termed the veterans' race.

They got away at 10 and rowed half a mile, H.M.C.S. Naden (the Barracks) coming first, with H.M.C.S. St. Laurent second, H.M.C.S. Fraser third and H.M.S. York fourth. The winning crew did the distance in four minutes flat.

Young seamen, sailors who had been in the service less than three years, rowed a mile, finishing in the following order: H.M.C.S. St. Laurent, H.M.C.S. Naden, H.M.C.S. Fraser and H.M.S. York. The winning crew's time was 10 minutes and 40 seconds.

OPEN EVENT

The open race was over a mile course and was won by H.M.C.S. Fraser in 10 minutes and 10 seconds. Second was H.M.C.S. Naden, third, H.M.C.S. St. Laurent, fourth, H.M.C.S. Naden, and fifth, H.M.S. York.

There were five men and a coxswain in each team. A large number of sailors watched from the rocks of the harbor and cheered their shipmates as they raced along. Many civilian spectators went through the Naval dockyard gates to the waterfront to watch the race, reminiscent of the days when Esquimalt Harbor sheltered the Pacific squadron of the Royal Navy.

Commander C. T. Beard, commander-in-charge at the dockyard, and his senior officers watched the races from the dockyard jetty.

The races were run under the auspices of the Naval Veterans' Branch of the Canadian Legion, with the following officials: Starting judges, Lieut.-Commanders Kenneth Adams and A. C. Wurtele; finishing judge, Lieut.-Commander J. E. W. Oland and Lieut.-Commander J. C. I. Edwards.

Prizes won this morning will be presented to the winning crews at the smoking concert in the Chamber of Commerce this evening. The event will be given by the Naval Veterans' Branch in honor of the men of the British flag.

JOE HANCOCK PASSES AWAY

Well-known Victoria Sportsman Dies in Hospital; Was Famous Bike Rider

Joseph B. "Joe" Hancock, 3120 Qu'Appelle Street, who at the turn of the century held every British Columbia bicycle sprint record from one-eighth of a mile to five miles and at one time bettered the world mark for the quarter mile, died in St. Joseph's Hospital last night, following a short illness.

For many years employed at Peden Bros' sporting goods store, Hancock was known by the athletic following of Victoria at the beginning of the century as the greatest sprint rider ever developed in British Columbia up to that time.

At the height of his riding career in 1901 he established a new mark for the mile, lowering the record of that time by two seconds. Owing to the fact the feat was accomplished in an exhibition race, he was denied recognition in the books which continued to show Otto Ziegler, Salt Lake City, as the record holder.

Mr. Hancock was born in Neath, Wales, 56 years ago, and had been a resident of Victoria for 50 years. He is survived by his widow, at home; one daughter, Mrs. Stanley Harrison, Port Renfrew, and seven sons, Charles, Edwin, Albert, Stanley, Arthur and George, all of Victoria, and Ivor, in Duncan; his mother, Mrs. Rhoda Hancock 280 Burnside Road, and three sisters, Mrs. McPhee, Victoria, and Mrs. McKay and Mrs. R. McKay, both of Oakland, Cal.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2:15 at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel. Interment will be in Colwood Burial Park.

Veterans' Picnic

Five hundred members and their families of the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion attended the unit's annual picnic party held Saturday afternoon at the Willows Beach. The branch band in their new uniforms attended and rendered selections during the afternoon.

The program, which was under the supervision of Dave Croston, included 20 sports events. Following each race prizes were presented to the winners by Leslie Scott, president of the branch. Officials in charge of the races were C. F. Dawson, W. G. Stone and H. Butteris. Henry Jarvis acted as starter.

Ice cream, candy and peanuts were distributed to the kiddies, and supper was provided by the branch late in the afternoon.

TELLS CLUB OF ENGLAND TRIP

G. H. Stevens Addresses Luncheon Meeting of Kiwanis at Empress

An informal travelogue on a trip to England was presented by G. H. Stevens, manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club held in the Empress Hotel today.

Mr. Stevens has recently returned from a four-month vacation during which he spent considerable time touring England. The first impression Mr. Stevens felt when he arrived in the port of London was the immense volumes of traffic on both the River Thames and in the streets of the city.

He told of various events which he visited during his stay. Events of major importance were continuously going on in London each day of the week which attracted visitors from all over the world.

A colorful affair witnessed was the Lord Mayor's procession with the coach and four horses and the old costumes worn. The Lord Mayor of London attended approximately 1,000 affairs a year.

The Epsom Derby was another event which clearly brought out the vast traffic conditions. There were well over 1,000,000 persons who attended the derby. Six of the major streets leading to Epsom were closed to truck traffic.

There were two lanes for traffic on each side of the roads and when a car was in one lane it had to remain in that position. As a result, the traffic was moved in record time with no casualties.

Mr. Stevens also told of the colorful ceremony of the changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace which he viewed.

He was greatly impressed with Temple Court which is situated in the heart of London. With every sort of conveyance moving about outside, and the crowds of people in the streets, inside the court it was dead silent—so near to the noise of the teeming throngs yet so quiet.

The speaker told of many other impressions he received from his travels in other parts of the British Isles and he described the beauties of various spots which he visited.

Jack MacFarlane, president, was in the chair.

Joseph North who collected $76 during Navy Week celebrations yesterday will collect during the parade tomorrow to raise funds for the children's Christmas dinner. He hopes to make a total collection during the year of $800. Those who have arranged to help Mr. North make the collection are asked to be at the Empire Realty office, Broad Street, at 1 tomorrow afternoon.

Art Revived In Common Things

W. P. Weston Tells Teachers Functional Design Has Brought New Beauty

"Today there is a revival of artistic consciousness not only on the part of the public but of the producer also," W. P. Weston, A.R.C.A., told teachers attending the Victoria Summer School of Education this morning.

In the seventh of a series of lectures on art appreciation, Mr. Weston dealt with the position of beauty in everyday things, automobiles, trains, airplanes, machines and furniture.

He found that the search for efficiency had produced a sleek new kind of beauty, and seemed to be creating a whole new field of aesthetics.

The first machines, steamboats, railway engines and automobiles had been put together in the pattern of their precursors, such as the sailboat, the stage coach and the buggy, without any thought of a compact correlation of their parts. Their designers had sought to hide the so-called ugliness of the machine with extraneous decoration.

Today, he said, there was a realization that the designer and craftsman had just as much chance to produce beauty with the machine as with hand-made things.

The plane, which had advanced so rapidly because it had no traditions to get away from, had had the greatest influence of all on the design of other things and had developed more than any thing the idea of design for function and use of material, with beauty as a natural by-product.

Art was no longer divorced from everyday life and mechanical things as it had been in the 19th century.

"I am not trying to claim that these things are high art," Mr. Weston said, "but they are things that we cannot dissociate from the same principles we have studied in relation to the fine arts, and if we realize that we shall get a far greater measure of satisfaction from our surroundings."

VISITORS GREETED

Headed by Alderman W. H. Davies, chairman of the celebration committee, Victoria council members today met Vancouver civic representatives on the arrival of the special excursion steamer from Vancouver shortly after 1 today and proceeded to Hatley Park, where the visitors were shown the estate.

Following the motor trip, the party returned to the city for informal water sports at the Crystal Garden this afternoon and later adjourned to the Empress Hotel, where they were entertained by local aldermen and celebration officials. Wives of the Vancouver leaders were the guests of the ladies of the Victoria council members.

The party was scheduled to return to Vancouver by the excursion steamer this evening prior to the soccer match between H.M.S. York representatives and a team from the Canadian Navy at the Athletic Park.

particular type of player should be met with a particular type of play. And the same holds true for other Canadians. They just don't study the individual opponent hard enough.

Still speaking out, Beasley scoffed at any suggestion that Canada's winners stood in the way of development of great tennis players.

"The conditions here aren't that much different from those in the rest of the northern hemisphere," he declared. "Other countries know what winter is and they're producing tennis players."

JUNIOR DAVIS CUP PLAN

Beasley would like to see the idea of "Junior Davis Cup squads" started in Canada. From them every year would be chosen a junior team that would practice as a unit and perhaps play United States juniors. From the team would come Canada's Davis Cup timber.

"Get your squads organized in the big centres," he said. "Organize in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Then get the best half-dozen youngsters and give them specialized training as a unit."

"But the work must be done from the ground up. The boys should be taken out in the morning and drilled and drilled. Get experienced players and put each one in charge of two courts."

"Above all, though, teach the boys to study their opponents. When they have developed to an extent, bring them together in imitation Davis Cup matches—with all the fanfare and the important atmosphere of the real thing. The kids will love it and they'll want to learn more and more of tennis."

Capture Two Final Singles From Mexico; Germany Wins European Zone

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Australia swept its Davis Cup tie with Mexico 5 to 0 by winning yesterday's final singles matches. The Mexicans failed to take a single set in the three days.

In the first match yesterday Adrian Quist completely outclassed young Eugenio Tapia, 6-1, 6-1, 6-4. Leonard Schwartz, Australian spare, replaced John Bromwich in the second match and defeated Daniel Hernandez, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, in the most interesting struggle of the tie.

The Australians left today for Montreal where they will meet Japan next week-end in the American zone final.

GERMANY WINS

BERLIN—Germany won the European zone Davis Cup final from Yugoslavia yesterday when Henner Henkel, German ace who has just recovered from an arm injury, fairly blasted Josip Palada off the court to win the deciding match in straight sets, 6-4, 7-5, 6-1.

Germany immediately forfeited the final match which was to have sent Georg von Metaxa, against Ferenc Puncer, thus making the final count 3 to 2. The German team will play the winner of the American zone final between Australia and Japan at Brookline, Mass., the week of August 18.

NEW DEAL TEST IN MISSOURI

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Bennett Champ Clark of Missouri, a foe of many United States administration measures, is bidding today for a thumping renomination majority and a chance at the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940.

A primary sweep for the son of the famous Democratic House leader who came near winning the presidential nomination from Woodrow Wilson in 1912, would increase talk among anti-Roosevelt Democrats of putting him forward as a "compromise" candidate to stop the New Deal's man, whoever he may be.

That makes the size of Clark's vote a matter of widespread interest in today's elections, which include primary voting in Kansas, Virginia and West Virginia as well as in Missouri.

President Roosevelt has not entered the Missouri campaign, and Clark has the support of both Democratic factions which are fighting in the state for control of the party. Joseph T. Davis of St. Louis and Willis H. Meredith of Poplar Bluff are on the ballot against him as "100 per cent New Dealers."

IN KANSAS

In the neighboring state of Kansas, Senator George McGill, a full-fledged New Dealer, and Governor W. A. Huxman have had no organized opposition in their campaigns for Democratic renomination. There has been a bitter campaign for the Republican senatorial nomination, however, in which one of the candidates, Rev. Gerald B. Winrod, has been opposed by National Chairman John Hamilton and other party leaders.

Winrod, an evangelist, has been accused of religious intolerance and in turn has charged his accusers with spreading half-truths about him.

Borax Lake Yields Tools 15,000 Years Old

LOS ANGELES—With its excavations finished for the current digging season the joint expedition of the Southwest Museum and the Carnegie Institution of Washington has returned from Clear Lake Park, California, with thousands of artifacts which may throw new light on America's original inhabitants, who antedated the famed Folsom man.

Mr. R. Harrington, curator of the museum and expedition leader, reports that only when the many implements discovered have been classified and studied will the true significance of the discovery be realized.

However, the three exploratory trenches, run through the ancient camp site, have given indications that the spot must be revisited, at another time, and a complete excavation made.

The principal find of the expedition was the discovery of crude stone tools and weapons, below the levels of Folsom culture. Geologists who have examined the site testify that it apparently has remained undisturbed for some 15,000 years.

The mesquite tree of the southwest was a veritable store for Indians, who got from it an assortment of food, medicine, fuel, fibre, dye and gum.

The Giants made up a last-minute effort to plug the biggest gap in their line-up yesterday when they bought Chalmers (Bill) Cissell, veteran second sacker, from Baltimore. Old Kingston Fort Reopened

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Old Fort Henry, which for 100 years has guarded Kingston's harbor, has been rebuilt and was dedicated yesterday by Prime Minister King to the cause of peace.

Built in 1826, it was planned to defend this country against attacks from the United States. Now it has been an instrument, not of war, but to increase the friendship of the two nations.

For over a generation this once mightily fortress had been neglected and fell into ruin. Through the co-operation of the Dominion and Ontario governments, its walls have been renewed and the old guns installed on their original foundations.

In the historic parade, with a multitude of people occupying the entire grounds and every vantage point of the fort, the Prime Minister yesterday traced the growth of Canada. He paid tribute to the men who have been able to "reconcile their differences and make a great people united from one end of Canada to the other."

STRENGTHENS PEACE

"I declare this fort open as an historic site," Mr. King said, "not so much on behalf of the government and people of Canada, but in the name of the forgotten soldiers who over 100 years ago built and occupied this place. I declare it open to the public to further serve the cause of peace."

Before Mr. King began to speak, over 100 carrier pigeons were released from the centre of the parade celebrating the centennial of the incorporation of Kingston. The birds swooped around over the great audience and started for their widely separated homes carrying messages of good-will, some going to Toronto, some to Montreal, and many other points east and west.

Autos For All Workers In Reich

LEVERKUSEN, Germany (AP)—Dr. Robert Ley, German labor leader, announced yesterday that beginning immediately, every German worker could save for a so-called "people's car," or Volkswagen.

Special savings accounts, he said, would be opened on the basis of a minimum deposit of five marks (about $2) weekly. Announcement would be made later as to how much each prospective buyer must save before a Volkswagen would be turned over to him on the installment plan, Dr. Ley said.

Disclosing further details of the previously announced new popular, low-priced automobile, he said the Reich's aim was "to every working German his Volkswagen."

"This very year," he said, "the first section of the factory for an annual production of 450,000 cars would have a roof overhead. By the end of 1939 regular production would be started. When the factory was completed, annual production would be 1,500,000 cars."

"In 10 years from now there won't be any working man in Germany who doesn't have or can't have his car," he said.

Ley said the car would cost 950 marks (about $380), would have a speed of 62½ miles an hour on the super highways, and would operate about 40 miles on a gallon of gasoline.

ST. LOUIS—Sale of Joe Stripp, veteran third baseman, to Boston Bees was announced yesterday by St. Louis Cardinals. It was a straight cash deal, but the amount involved was not made known.

Troops May Keep Eye On Polling

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Governor Gordon Browning questioned today the authority of a federal district judge to enjoin him from using state troops here in Thursday's Democratic primary, and said that "if the situation warrants it, I will send troops in."

The order, signed by District Judge John D. Martin, was served on the Governor last night shortly before he fulfilled a speaking engagement in this political stronghold of National Democratic Committeemen E. H. Crump.

Crump, one-time supporter of Browning, who is seeking renomination, has a candidate of his own in the field, state Senator Prentice Cooper of Shelbyville.

A U.S. senator, governor and public utilities commissioner are to be nominated Thursday, but the controversy between Browning and Crump has overshadowed other activities.

"The idea of letting a federal injunction deter me from handling the state's troops is silly and absurd," Governor Browning told his audience here last night.

"I am chief executive of a sovereign state and know exactly what my rights are."

Australia's native bear that looks like a Teddy Bear—the koala—is now protected from hunters, though in the past millions of these bears were killed for their fur.

"The Toy Wife" At Dominion

Luise Rainer Plays Role of Froufrou Brigard in Plan-tation Film

Combining a brilliant and colorful picture of Louisiana plantation life of the 1850's with a group of masterful characterizations headed by that of Luise Rainer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer has produced a rarely satisfying motion picture in "The Toy Wife," current at the Dominion Theatre.

Miss Rainer, Academy Award winner for two successive years, adds another inspired delineation as the frivolous, irresponsible "Froufrou" Brigard, younger daughter of an aristocratic Creole family. The part affords her an infinite variety of emotional expression of which she makes the fullest use with the same artistry that made her "Anna Held" and "O-Lan," the outstanding performances of the past two years.

The supporting cast is uniformly good with Barbara O'Neil, H. B. Warner, Alma Kruger, Walter Kingsford, Leonard Penn, the four-year-old Alan Purr, and others contributing lifelike portraits of the period. A group of outstanding negro performers is headed by Theresa Harris as "Froufrou's" maid and Clarence Muse as Valaire's servant.

"Trader Horn" To Play at Atlas

Thrills of the wildest jungles, beasts in their struggles for life, savage tribesmen in the strange, fanatical and deadly rites of the jungle; crocodiles, rhino—every peril an explorer could face—these are filmed, with actual sound, in "Trader Horn," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's gigantic pageant of savage Africa which opens tomorrow at the Atlas Theatre.

But it differs from anything of the kind ever seen, for its thrills and its wonders surround a dramatic story—the tale of the adventurous trader, his apprentice and the beautiful "White Goddess" of the savage Isorgi. The famous book lives in actuality, as in the original locales of its dramatic narrative. It is enacted in talking pictures.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"I'll Give a Million," 20th Century-Fox's newest comedy drama, is at the Capitol Theatre today, with Warner Baxter starred and Marjorie Weaver cast as his romantic vis-a-vis. Also in the featured cast are Peter Lorre, Jean Hersholt, John Carradine, J. Edward Bromberg, Lynn Bari and Fritz Feld. Darryl F. Zanuck personally was in charge of production and assigned Walter Lang to direct, with Kenneth Macgowan as associate producer.

American Mail Is Terminating

William M. Allan, general agent for the American Mail Line, has been instructed by John Carmode, vice-president of the line in Seattle, to close the local offices of the company in the Belmont Building on August 31.

With the arrival of the liner President Jefferson from the Orient on Sunday next the American Mail Line is discontinuing its Seattle-Victoria-Orient service, following the collapse of negotiations for increased U.S. government subsidy.

It is a coincidence that the President Jefferson, which was the Wenatchee, inaugurated the service in 1921, will be the vessel to terminate it.

In 1921 the U.S. Shipping Board entered into an agreement with the Pacific Steamship Company through the Admiral Oriental Line for the inauguration of a trans-Pacific service between Seattle and the Orient under the operating company secured five steamships from the board. They were the Wenatchee, now the President Jefferson; Pine Tree State, now President Grant; Keystone State, now President Madison; Bay State, now President Jackson, and Silver State, now the President McKinley.

When this service was inaugurated 17 years ago the local agency of the line was held by Rithet Consolidated Ltd., with Mr. Allan in charge of the steamship operations, but in 1922 the company moved into offices of its own on Government Street, with Mr. Allan as general agent and Leslie Pelling as his assistant, both of whom had been in the employ of Rithet for a number of years previously. In 1923 an agreement was completed for the purchase of the five ships and the company from that time operated as "the American Mail Line" and the vessels were renamed as presidents.

Many thousands of passengers and large cargoes have been handled from the Orient and Victoria in the intervening years by the President liners, with freight for the mainland being transhipped here.

Mr. Allan stated today that he had no knowledge of any contemplated move to continue the service in the future.

Seattle interests have been working with a view to operating a passenger and cargo service to the Orient, but at present it is indefinite whether any future ocean service out of Seattle will include Victoria as a port of call.

Canoeists On Way To Juneau

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Two California College students, Martin Goldberg and Bill Renwick of Stockton, paddled along the northern British Columbia coast today on their way to Juneau, Alaska, in a 17-foot canoe.

Martin, 20, and Bill, 18, left here to continue the trip which began at Seattle, June 18. The boys have been on the water ever since and claim they have paddled about 500 miles.

"We did hitch hike a few miles, they admitted."

Their most harrowing experience on route here was the time they were forced to take refuge on a tiny island when a sudden storm whipped across Queen Charlotte Sound. It took them two days to make the crossing.

"We strongly advise anyone not to make that trip in a canoe. Its fine when the sea is smooth but every afternoon, even during fine weather, the wind whips up enough sea to make traveling impossible." They added that they did most of the traveling during the morning.

"We stopped off at most of the lighthouses and any of the places that we could see without going out of our way," Bill said. "Part of the pleasure of the trip was in meeting people."

"Everyone was fine to us, wherever we went."

HALIBUT SALES

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—Prince Rupert halibut sales yesterday.

American 25,000 pounds at 7.7 cents and 6 cents to 8.1 cents and 6 cents.

Paddling Here In Canvas Kyak

Hans Kerchner En Route From Vancouver to Victoria Via Nanaimo

VANCOUVER (CP)—Somewhere on the waters of Georgia Strait today Hans Kerchner and his 34-pound canvas kyak were en route to Victoria.

Using the quaint double paddle of the Eskimo, the young German headed for Vancouver Island Saturday in his frail canoe well stocked with food and a tent.

"He planned to go to Nanaimo first and then on to Victoria," Len Murrell, a friend, said here.

"The trip won't be a novel experience for him either. I have met him many times while on jaunts to Howe Sound or North Arm resorts in my boat, and the way his canoe rides a heavy sea is amazing."

Flaherty sustained spinal concussion and a fractured pelvis by his fall and was in very bad shape when the cruiser answered the Embassy's radio call. The cruiser put back 60 miles, took the injured man aboard and took him to Vancouver. He is now recovering in St. Paul's Hospital at Vancouver and expects to be discharged within four weeks.

Passes in Winnipeg

JOHN H. LOCKHART

A former well-known University School student passed away in Winnipeg, July 20, in the untimely death of John H. Lockhart, only son of Robert Lockhart, chief supervisor of news service in the sleeping and dining car department of the Canadian Pacific western lines, and Mrs. Lockhart.

John Lockhart, who was only 27 years old, had a brilliant scholastic record which took him from the University School in Victoria to the University of Manitoba at Winnipeg, where he graduated with the engineering class of 1934. He was born at Westmount, Quebec, September 20, 1910.

Active in sports, he was a ringer player and cricketer during his University School days, 1926-1929, and at Winnipeg turned out as a member of basketball and football squads with the faculty of engineering at the university.

Stricken with a kidney infection some years ago, he faced the inevitable with extraordinary fortitude. He was actively associated with the Actimist Club of Westminster Church in Winnipeg, and Rev. J. Dick Fleming of that church conducted the funeral services. Miss Frances Davidson sang his favorite hymn, "In a Garden," and six of his friends, Cedric White, Edward and Richard Sellers, George Hensen, Jack Creba and Al. Fryer were pallbearers. Burial was made at Elmwood Cemetery, Winnipeg.
